LOUISVILLE has a new iron jail, each cell of which is made of iron, and it was supposed to be burglar-proof. On Tuesday morning two illicit distillers cut through an iron bar with a pocket knife, pried open an iron door, cut a hole in a brick wall and a flue, jumped twenty feet and escaped. As one of the men would have been released next week, it is thought he escaped merely to show how easily the new jail could be broken.

THE sexton of Trinity Church, New York, and his assistants have received instructions to lock all the doors of the edifice on Sundays immediately before the commencement of the sermon, and to keep them so until the service is concluded. The sexton was deaf to their entreaties and held them prisoners until the end. Only one succeeded in securing his release through a middle door by threatening a suit for false imprisonment.

They then extorted a promise from her that she would live with Payne no longer, and left. Payne, a desperate character, threatens to mete out the same punishment to every one of the women engaged in the affair.

How is This for Lo?

[From the Boise City (Idaho) News.]

Harper's Weekly contains a highly poetical allusion to Sarah Winnemucca, the interesting daughter of Mr. Winnemucca, Chief of the Piutes, whose gallant exploits in stealing horses and cutting the tongues out of defenceless emigrants will long be remembered by the people of Nevada and Southern Idaho with feelings of just pride and admiration. Now, this noble aborigine daughter, Sarah—no less—is to come in for a share of the honors which have been lavished so unsparingly in days gone by upon her illustrious sire, the old gentleman, Winnemucca. Miss Sarah, says Harper's Weekly, "has written (?) a very sagacious letter to the Indian Commissioner Parker, in which she has eloquently portrayed the wrongs of her race." What infernal needles some of those Eastern people are. If we are not very much mistaken we had the pleasure of seeing, some years ago, Miss Sarah at Camp McDermott, Nevada. She and a few other interesting relics of the "noble red man" were being fatted at the fort during that winter for the spring campaign against Idaho emigrants. The emigration having stopped for the season, "there were no other worlds to conquer," so Sarah and her tribe were about to fare badly, as the supply of dried scalps, grasshoppers and lice had been exhausted. Their condition excited the sympathy of Uncle Sam's boys at the fort, so they were taken in and cared for until spring, when they resumed their favorite pastime of stealing and murdering. But it is our recollections of Miss Sarah we propose to recite. Sarah was at that time about sweet sixteen or twenty—it would be difficult to judge of her exact age from her appearance, owing to a careless habit she had acquired of never washing her beautifully chiselled features. But as we had been taught to judge the age of a cow by the wrinkles on her horns, or the age of a tree by the belts of growth on its trunk, so we made a slather at Miss Sarah's age by the number of scales of greasy dirt which naturally accumulated on the ridge of her comely countenance during the lapse of years. She was about four or five feet high—how is that for "Lo?"—and not quite as broad as she was narrow. Her raven tresses, which had been permitted to coy with the sportive breeze, unbound, unwashed, and uncombed, from the earliest childhood, stood out in elegant and awry confusion from her classically shaped cabese, which contributed to her contour an air of romantic splendor. Her style of dress, though primitive, closely assimilated that worn by her more fashionable sisters in Paris and other big towns. It was the fashion of the day, slightly exaggerated, consisting of an elegant scarf, about a foot wide cut from an ancient horse blanket, which was gracefully girded round her delicate waist—the circumference of which, owing to the scarcity of clover and fresh crickets at that season, had materially diminished—over which hung a beautiful set of skeleton hoops. These completed the toggery of this sweet and simple daughter of nature. Her feet were encased in moccasins, and showed evident indications of hard service and long walks over the rocky hills and sage bush plains, and the mud of her native hearth, crisp and dry, clung tenaciously to her toes. And we are glad to announce that this divinity was treated during her brief sojourn among the white savages with the respect due her exalted rank and birthright—as the only daughter and heiress of that noble old chief, Winnemucca. If Miss Sarah has improved her time as well since we saw her, as she evidently did previous to that date, we have no hesitancy in pronouncing her at this day a highly cultivted young lady, well qualified to write a "sagacious letter to Commissioner Parker" or to make a valuable contribution to Harper's Weekly.

ON the night of the 10th instant, W. R. Vann, living near Evansville, Indiana, was attacked by James Broadherst and John C. Handley, who knocked him down five times. When down the fifth time, Handley threw himself upon Vann, and was beating him about the head and face, when Vann succeeded in getting out his knife and drove it into Handley's throat just under the jaw bone, inflicting a wound that may prove fatal. This cut was not sufficient to drive him off, and three more cuts were inflicted, one on the lower hip and two on the left leg. One of those on the leg cut completely through all the muscles, cords and blood vessels of the lower part of the calf, to the bone, the other making a wound about four inches long, about three inches above the ankle. The wound on the hip was insignificant. Vann says that the villians were making every effort to get him into a gutter, about two feet deep, by the roadside, with the evident intention of drowning him. Broadherst is in jail, and Handley on his deathbed. The cause of the attack was as follows: Several days previous, Broadherst and Handley went to the house of a neighbor named Knapp, and gave whisky to his five little motherless girls, the oldest only ten years old, plying them with the liquor until they were all drunk, which so exasperated their father that, as soon as he heard of it, he took a gun and started out with the avowed intention of shooting both of them, but failed to execute his threat. Vann, in conversation relative to this affair, said that, had the children been his, he would have done what Knapp threatened to do. This remark coming to the ears of Handley and Broadherst, they determined to give Vann a beating, and the attempt resulted as above stated.

NORTH ADAMS, June 14.—A party of seventy-five Chinese emigrants, brought here by Mr Calvin S. Simpson, an enterprising shoe manufacturer, arrived here last evening. They run the gauntlet of a mob of angry white "Crispins," and took up their quarters in lodgings fitted up for them. When the strangers arrived, a large crowd assembled at the depot, hooting, throwing stones, and threatening worse violence, but the Chinamen took it very coolly. The local police showed a firm front, and only one or two slight assaults were made, the perpetrators of which were promptly arrested and fined. The "Crispins" are still in great excitement, however, and are holding a meeting to-night to consult as to measures of defense against these cheaply-working Celestials. The outside community receive the event with genuine pleasure, and Mr. Sampson is overwhelmed with congratulations as to his pluck and enterprise. The Chinamen have generally spent the day in fitting up their bunks, and bathing and resting after their journey, but some have tried their hands in the workshop, and have astonished all spectators by their readiness in learning what is an entirely new trade to them. They are mostly young men, seem to be very intelligent and eager to learn, and appear to be greatly pleased with their first glimpse of New England scenery and manners. They have a foreman of their own race, and work for twenty-three dollars a month and lodgings and fuel, they boarding themselves in their own fashion, and Mr. Sampson furnishing two Chinese cooks. The establishment is strongly guarded on account of "Crispin" threats of blowing it up, but no violence is seriously apprehended, though no Chinamen will venture off the grounds for the present.

THE Chicago Tribune of Thursday says: Three boys, two of them aged 13 and the other 15, sons of well-known gentlemen of this city, disappeared under very mysterious circumstances on Sunday morning, and have neither been seen nor heard from since. Two of the lads are the sons of Mr. N. M. Tuttle, residing at No. 545 West Monroe street. On Sunday morning, between eight and nine o'clock, they left home for Sunday school. When they had gone several blocks they met a son of Mr. Schenkel, about thirteen years of age, who joined them. They started down the street together, and since then nothing has been seen of either.

—Late correspondence from Havana leaves scarcely a doubt of the failure of the Upton expedition to Cuba. A number of men and about two thousand stand of arms were landed and almost immediately afterward captured. The steamer, escaping from the Spanish gunboats, sailed for Aspinwall. Bad management is ascribed as the cause of the disaster.

XLIST CONGRESS.

(SECOND SESSION.)

WASHINGTON, June 17, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. POMEROY, from Committee on Public Lands, reported without amendment the House bill to amend the Homestead act, extending it to soldiers.

Mr. CAMERON called up the House joint resolution amendatory of the joint resolution for the relief of certain officers of the army, passed July, 1866.

The resolution was amended so as to provide for compensation from date of commission to officers who were commissioned while in rebel prisons, (the present law dating pay from date of muster in), and passed.

Mr. EDMUNDS called up the House bill to construe certain acts therein cited relative to pensions. Passed.

Mr. STEWART moved to take up the bill to prohibit contracts for servile labor, remarking he did not want servile labor to compete with free labor in this country if it could be prevented.

The bill was taken up and various amendments being suggested it was laid over for a day or two.

Mr. SUMNER moved to take up the bill for a pension to Mrs. Lincoln.

Mr. EDMUNDS objected, but Mr. Sumner's motion was carried—31 to 24.

Mr. EDMUNDS spoke in opposition to the bill till the expiration of the morning hour, when the Franking bill came up, but was passed over for the consideration of the calendar.

A number of bills were read, but without action the Senate took up the postoffice appropriation bill in Committee of the Whole.

The amendment of the Committee on Appropriations restricting free letter delivery to cities of over forty thousand inhabitants was concurred in.

Mr. RAMSEY moved as an amendment the House bill abolishing the franking privilege.

Mr. STEWART renewed the amendment of Mr. Drake continuing the present provisions of the law for free transmission of newspapers. Adopted—yeas 42, nays 11.

The question being on Mr. Ramsey's amendment, Mr. MORRELL, Vermont, moved to further modify by continuing the franking privilege to the Executive Department and Agricultural Department, to petitions, &c.

Messrs. HOWARD and MORTON opposed the amendment as a half way measure, preferring to try the experiment of a total repeal of the franking system.

The amendment was rejected—16 to 31.

Mr. SPENCER moved an amendment that the abolition of the franking privilege shall not take effect until January 1st, 1871. Lost—21 to 26.

Mr. RAMSEY gave notice of an amendment—which, on his motion, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations—providing for a system of stamped envelopes for the use of Congress and the Departments, and making appropriations to defray expenses.

Mr. SUMNER moved as an amendment his proposition to reduce the expenses of carrying mails, providing for a one penny postage system, &c.

At four o'clock the Senate went into executive session and at 3:30 took a recess.

Evening Session.—The Senate proceeded with the Postoffice Appropriation bill, the question being upon Mr. Sumner's substitute for the franking bill, providing for a system of one cent postage for half ounce letters, and three ounces printed matter, regulating rates on newspapers, books, &c., authorizing stamped envelopes for the Departments and Congress, limiting the cost of mail service on any railroad to thirty dollars a mile annually, and requiring all postoffice payments to be in stamps.

After a long discussion the Senate at 11:30 voted upon Mr. Sumner's substitute, which was rejected—yeas 17, nays 25.

An amendment by Mr. NYE, to provide for a two cent letter postage, was agreed to—yeas 21, nays 17.

Mr. MORTON said the adoption of this amendment necessitated an additional appropriation for the postoffice of seven or eight million dollars.

Mr. TRUMBULL said he was in favor of the abolition of the franking privilege, but would vote against the amendments when reported from the Committee of the Whole.

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. CHURCHILL, from Election Committee, made a report in the Virginia contested election case, that Mr. Whittlesy was not entitled to a seat, and that Mr. McKenzie, sitting member, is. The report was agreed to.

Mr. COBB, Wis., from Committee on Military Affairs, reported the bill to equalize the bounties of soldiers, allowing eight and one-third dollars to non commissioned officers, soldiers and musicians for each month's service between the 19th of April, 1861, and 9th of May, 1865, deducting United States bounties already paid, which passed.

Mr. PALMER, from the Library Committee, reported a joint resolution instructing the architect of the Capitol to transfer to the conservatory of the United States Botanical Garden the stone presented by the patriots of Rome to the late President Lincoln, and now in the crypt of the Capitol.

Mr. CULLOM offered as a substitute to have it transferred to the Lincoln Monument Association at Springfield, Illinois.

The substitute was agreed to and the joint resolution passed.

The bill granting Yerba Buena Island to the Western Pacific Railroad Co. for a terminus came up as the unfinished business of yesterday. It was discussed at some length and rejected—80 to 82.

Mr. SCHENCK, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported back the Senate joint resolution to admit free of duty printed chromos of Indian paintings belonging to John M. Stanley, not exceeding 21,000 copies. Passed

Several bills granting pensions were reported from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and passed.

One of the bills reported was to restore the pension of Mrs. M. L. Bybee, of Tennessee, she having been deprived of it because she could not take the test oath. It appeared from the report that she was the daughter of John Adair, a Revolutionary soldier, afterwards Governor of Kentucky, and widow of Colonel W. P. Anderson, a soldier of the war of 1812, who died of wounds received in war.

Pending the discussion the House proceeded to the consideration of District of Columbia business, and several bills were passed.

A motion to reconsider the vote rejecting the Yerba Buena bill was entered.

The bill to pave Pennsylvania avenue was discussed until adjournment.

Daring Bank Robbery at Louisville.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, June 17.—The Mechanics Bank, this city, was this evening about five o'clock the scene of a bold and daring robbery. Henry L. Pope, cashier, was at the time alone in the bank. Two men entered and one placing a knife to the throat of Pope, threatened him with instant death if he uttered a word. The other taking a handkerchief saturated with chloroform put it over his face and threw a shawl over his head, and as soon as the chloroform took effect, carried Pope to a room in the back part of the building and locked him in. The robbers then proceeded in a systematic manner with their work of cleaning out the bank. Sixty thousand dollars in money was secured and carried off, and twelve or thirteen thousand dollars left scattered all over the floor. A clerk returning at half past eight o'clock discovered the bank doors open and called in two policemen, who, hearing a groan from the rear of the building, discovered and relieved Mr. Pope from his disagreeable situation. He was still unconscious, and it was some time before he recovered from the effects of drug administered. The bank was robbed about thirty years since, when Banker, book-keeper, was killed, and Julian, cashier, severely wounded. The robber, Dix, was discovered in the act and blew his brains out to prevent arrest.

EPISCOPAL.

Report of the Committee on the State of the Church to the Convention of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, June 16, 1870.

[Tabular statement omitted.]

In preparing and presenting to the Convention a condensed tabular statement of the state of the Church within the Diocese to be published with the journals as required in Rule of Order No. XIX, your Committee deem it proper to add a brief statement by way of supplementing the statistics found in the Parochial Reports and the Bishop's address.

They would call attention especially to the following facts: That the large indebtedness of some of our parishes has been removed or considerably diminished; that there are much fewer arrearages of Rectors' salaries than last year, and those of smaller amounts; and that there has been an increase in the number of free churches to an extent that enables the Bishop to say that pews are rented in only about one-fourth of our churches,—clearly indicating a purpose to bring the Church to the masses of our people, and to claim that support and allegiance which is due and will be given to a Church truly Catholic in fact as well as in name. The Church cannot fulfil her Divine mission, so long as she is content to minister to a class, or to the classes represented by pew-renters or owners, and by the pauper beneficiaries whom her alms may attract. The church doors must be thrown open to all comers, and pew-doors abolished; and in cases where this is impracticable, services must be multiplied at convenient hours, as recommended by the House of Bishops; and then, for the love of Jesus, we must go out into the streets and the workshops and compel to come in those for whom He died.

Many of the parochial reports are made out so imperfectly that your committee have had great difficulty in fulfilling the duties imposed upon them. While the facts exhibited show much improvement in some directions, they feel compelled to remark that they also betray very serious defects in the practical working of parishes. There is a lack of efficiency and of success from not using the best methods, and calling into action proper energies.

Your Committee call attention in the form Parochial report which gives the statistics for the year, to the points to which attention should be given in parochial work. As examples, they may refer to the columns for male communicants, and male Sunday School teachers and lay helpers. They felt it to be important to know whether this Church is reaching the men as well as the women among us, and whether the men as well as the women are giving themselves to their "vocation and ministry" as Christian workers.

The column headed "Appointed Lay Helpers, male and female," was intended to elicit the information whether there are yet in our parishes, in addition to Sunday school teachers reported in another place, lay men and women regularly working in the parish, under license of the Bishop, or appointment of the minister in assigned specific ministries. For it is felt that the church must fail to accomplish, with any degree of fulness, her Catholic work, unless her clergy are able to call to their aid the services of her laity. The work to be done by the church in our day, calls most emphatically for the revival of some of those minor orders of christian workers which proved so helpful as employed by the Apostles and by the church of the next succeeding ages. Earnest and intelligent laymen may be now employed with as good effect as in primitive times. If the minister will lead them on by his own zeal and energy, they can share the labor and the reward of winning souls to Christ and His Church, by lay-reading; by the superintendency of missions; by helping in cottage lectures, and by teaching and exhortation. And the work of Christian women may be made even more helpful to the cause of Christ. The minister must learn how to set them to work, and to guide them in district visiting; in conducting sewing and industrial schools for girls; in visiting, reading to, and praying with the sick; in gathering together weekly for instruction and prayer, the mothers of a district or neighborhood among the working classes, visiting them regularly, promoting their mutual acquaintance, cultivating the social element; drawing them and their familes to the Church, and helping them to find in it their home. In gathering Bible classes of men, and teaching them. Their success has been remarkable, whenever they have given themselves heartily and obediently to this work.

It seems evident to your committee that the practical and sure way of putting new life and giving large success to our missions and parishes in our manufacturing towns would be the discreet and wise use of Christian women as deaconesses or sisters of mercy. In this connection it may be suggested that the solution of the question of parish schools will not probably be found till we shall have called to our aid the voluntary help of refined Christian women, gratuitously rendered for the love of Christ and His little ones. The Pittsburgh Church Home might eventually be made Diocesan, and have connected with it a training school for women, in which they might qualify themselves for the ministries for which they are fitted by nature.

We may add one word as to the importance of Church and Parish guilds, as means of bringing both men and women into hearty co-operation in work for Christ, and for men's souls and bodies. They will be found to be of untold value in enlisting young men in Church work, in promoting intelligence and social intercourse, in teaching night schools and classes and conducting missions, and in such other work as may be called for by the wants of the communities in which they are organized.

With regard to Church work in the chief city of the Diocese, the committee note with satisfaction the evidences of parochial life in the new and handsome edifice, nearly finished, of St. Andrew's Church, in the stately pile in course of erection by the mother-parish of the Diocese, Trinity Church, in the enlargement of Calvary Church, East Liberty, the addition of a Sunday-school building to St. James Church, and the work accomplished by the other parishes which have not needed such improvements. The large-hearted liberality which perpetrates the hold of the first-named parishes on their original sites deserves especial commemoration and commendation in these days when consecrated ground is too readily given up to the demands of commerce, and holy memories are often cast aside as things of little worth.

Your committee, however, must express the conviction that the time has arrived for large and comprehensive plans of church extension in all parts of this wealthy and growing city. The Church in the city, as well as in the Diocese, is properly a unit, and should realize its unity in systematic operations wrought out with due relation of the parts to the whole. The committee do not think it beyond their province to make such suggestions on this topic as seem to them expedient.

The great extent over which the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and their suburbs, are rapidly spreading, impose the necessity of establishing Mission Chapels at all available points, so as to bring and keep the Church near to the homes of the people. A vigorous system of City Missions, therefore, is a primary want and duty. Sunday afternoon services have been begun at two or three new points by the parochial clergy; Sunday schools should follow, and in due time the full measure of services and mission work as the precursor of future parishes. Without such services in their immediate neighborhoods, a large class of the laboring population especially becomes forgetful or neglectful of the duty of public worship; various hindrances operate to make their attendance upon the churches at a distance only occasional; and as the habit of staying at home grows upon them, they become more and more careless, and are finally lost, both to the old-established parish and to the church. They need special pastoral and missionary labor to look them up and keep them in the way of attendance on the sanctuary and in the practice of religion; and this must be supplied by the zeal of the Church in prosecuting City Missions among them, as they spread over the hills and valleys. The large city is a mission field as important and as imperative in its requirements as any other department of the great work of evangelizing the world.

But the establishment of Mission chapels is only a part of the systematic work which must be arranged for, in any plan sufficiently comprehensive to meet the occasion. By the inevitable course of events, the larger churches built by the long established parishes are becoming more and more isolated, by the increasing business of the city, from the residences of their present parishioners. As the new churches develop out of the Missions it is in every way right and proper that these parishioners should become identified with them in work and worship, and so they will in many cases, indeed, their zeal being the foster-parent of the new enterprises; while the older churches will find around them a population as dense as ever, but of a class which has not the means to keep them up with the liberality their former parishioners could exercise. The time will come when Trinity and St. Peter's, and also St. Andrew's will be virtually and properly Mission Churches to the down-town population, and the strong and wealthy parishes will be in what are now the suburbs. A wise forethought will not only not place any obstacle in the way of this natural development of the situation, but will begin in time to make adequate provision for the effective work of these noble parishes in their new relation. An essential part of the plan of mission work for the city, therefore, seems to be the early endowment of these churches, preparatory to making them free churches fully equipped for work on an extensive scale. We do not hesitate, therefore, to recommend thus publicly to the authorities of these parishes, to move in this direction as soon as may be. Ten or twenty years hence there will be a great work for these Churches to do among people whom they do not now reach, and it is not a day too soon for them to begin in preparing for it.

Connected with this subject there comes in here also all that is elsewhere said in this report concerning lay-help and its systematic organization for church work. The peculiar fitness of this instrumentality for work in the city has been fully demonstrated, and it needs only that the laity should enter with zeal upon it, to reap harvests of spiritual increase after the measure of the parable: "thirty, sixty or a hundred fold."

There are other interests in the large city which need to be looked after by the Church in its unity. The parish has its sphere of work in which it needs not to be supplemented or interfered with; but the general institutions which the Church ought to establish in the city, can be effectually managed only (as the City Mission must be) by the intelligent co-operation of all together. Such institutions have already been established in the see city of the Diocese. The Bishop Bowman Institute for girls, and the Episcopal Classical Academy are brought to the notice of the Convention by the reports of the clergymen who are at their heads. The Pittsburgh Church Home and Church Guild are not formally before the Convention, but your committee cannot pass them over without mention, as if unaware of their existence. Other institutions will spring up as they are wanted and means can be found for them—as for example, a Church Hospital—and the efficient and systematic management of all these together with the city mission work, seems to demand a central organization for the city, which shall combine the efficient help of all the parishes in a real visible unity; so that the Church in the city as a whole, by means of its representative body, may plan with wisdom and execute with power.

Your Committee would, therefore, recommend to the Church in the city of Pittsburgh—including under that name the associated cities and boroughs—the formation of such a central organization, properly representative, and so related to the parishes as to secure their zealous co-operation, and to call out their energy and their liberality in maintaining and working these general institutions. The proper ecclesiastical name for such an organization, it seems to them would be "The Cathedral Chapter." It would be composed of the Rectors of all the self-supporting parishes in the city, and of a lay-representation elected by the vestry of each parish, with the Bishop at its head. It would look, of course, to the possession in time, of a Bishop's Church, or Cathedral; but before this would be realized, there would be abundant scope for its activity in supervising planning and providing for the other institutions of a general character which the Church in the city possesses or requires. In it would be discussed the educational, the charitable, the missionary operations; a common understanding would be arrived at; by its deliberations an intelligent appreciation would be obtained of the work to be done, and under its lead the means to do the work would be collected and judiciously expended.

The Committee do not think it necessary to formulate these recommendations in any resolutions on this particular subject. The wisdom of the Bishop with the clergy and laity of the city will arrange all the details when they proceed to put the suggestions here made, into practice. The Committee see in the future, the Church in the city a united whole, the Bishop and Cathedral Chapter at the head, the wealthy congregation, the endowed churches, the incipient parishes and mission stations grouped in orderly array around it, the general institutions effectively worked by it, and accomplishing their objects under the Divine blessing. They commend to the Churchmen of the city the effort to realize the plan and its results, to the glory of God and the extension of the Redeemer's Kingdom.

MUSICAL TOURNAMENT.

The Contest at the College Last Night—A Brilliant Audience and an Excellent Programme—The Result of the Trial.

The Musical Contest in the Chapel of the Pittsburgh Female College last evening, was attended by one of the most brilliant and fashionable audiences ever assembled in the city. These occasions have heretofore been of the most cultivated and enjoyable character, and, as was expected, the recurrence of that of last night witnessed a full Chapel and a programme, which for excellence in all its details and execution, reflected the highest credit upon the performers and Dr. Pershing, who is the genius and inspiration of the entertainments.

At eight o'clock the visitors had all arrived and had been seated, when the young ladies, arrayed with exquisite taste, entered and took seats upon the platform. The exercises were then opened with prayer by the Rev. T. N. Boyle, of the South Common M. E. church, Allegheny, after which the regular programme was taken up. Miss Mary Bowman led the way with instrumental "Variations," which was well rendered, and created considerable enthusiasm. Miss Inez Kennedy, a petite miss, possessed of a sweet voice, great cultivation and a contral which was the praise of all, sang "Ilma." Miss Lizzie Sawyer in "Martha" an instrumental selection, one of the best of the evening was followed by Miss Jean Wallace in a sentimental song "If thou couldst know" of which the hearty applause and encoring was the best commendation.

The next performance with which the audience was favored was "Last Hope," a difficult but very finely executed instrumental selection by Miss Fannie Reese. The fair performer displayed an intimate acquaintance with her task, and that it was well received was indicated by the hearty applause which followed. Miss Inez again appeared, this time in an instrumental selection, displaying an ease and skill in manipulating the keys very unusual in one so young. "Paulina Van Arden," a sentimental song, by Miss Matilda Seibert, was well received by the audience, and except for an occasional horshness when the higher notes were reached, would have ranked as a perfect amateur performance.

Miss Mary Fleming, in a spirited and instrumental selection, "The Water Sprite" exhibited great delicacy of touch and fine execution. "La Farfaletta," a song by Miss Mary Bowman was next on the programme.

It was announced that the lady had just recovered from an attack of throat disease, but notwithstanding this fact, the performance was rendered in an almost faultless manner, although it was one of the most difficult of the evening. It received unbounded applause. Miss Clara Ake was the next performer, and appeared in "Polonaise"—instrumental—and given with much feeling and force. Again the programme was varied, with a song (Italian) "Enani Involani," by Miss Lizzie Sawyer—a vocalist with a pure flexible voice, under careful training and a rare power of expression which was peculiarly observant. Miss Susie Patterson, closed the entertainment at the piano with "Daunstadt," an instrumental composition full of life and energy, which was happily exhibited in the manner of its execution by the performer. The performance was heartily encored.

The Judges, Messrs. Clement Tetedoux, Carl Greabe, Clifford Marshal, and V. De Hamm now retired to deliberate, Dr. Pershing in the meantime announcing further exercises of the closing of the term.

Miss Maggie McMullen who was observed in the audience was then requested to favor the audience with a song. In responce to the invitation which was followed by rapturous applause, attesting the popularity of the fair vocalist, Miss McMullen came forward and convulsed the listeners with laughter with a comic song.

The Rev. W. A. Davidson, D. D., of Washington, who had been appointed to present the prizes, came in, bearing in his hand an ominous sheet of white paper, the sight of which caused a fluttering in the audience and a quivering among the performers. The agony was soon over, however, when the bearer of the message announced as the successful contestants: No. 7, instrumental, first prize, a gold medal, Miss Susie Patterson; No. 5, second prize, instrumental a silver medal, Miss Mary Fleming; No. 1, vocal prize, elegantly bound volume of music, Miss Inez Kennedy. The young ladies then came forward and received the gifts from Dr. Davidson, who accompanied the presentation with an exceedingly happy and pertinent speech, which closed the evening's exercises.

The entertainment throughout was eminently successful, and gave further evidence of the great advancement of the pupils of this popular institution in the "art divine."

To-morrow morning, at 10½ o'clock, the Rev. H. Sinsibaugh will preach the Baccalaureate sermon before the pupils in Christ church. The other closing exercises of the term will be hereafter commenced.

A Fatal Accident.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WEST NEWTON, PA., June 16, 1870.

A fatal and sad accident occurred on the afternoon of the 15th inst. at the residence of Daniel Kelley, Esq., Rostraver township, Westmoreland county. A son of Mr. Kelley's, about nineteen years of age, took out his rifle to shoot some birds that were killing their bees. He was not missed until about two hours after leaving the house, when one of his younger brothers found his lifeless remains in an outbuilding, with a ghastly gunshot wound in the forehead.

The rifle was found lying at his feet and the ramrod across his body; and it is thought the accident occurred while he was cleaning or loading the piece. Young Kelley was highly esteemed, and his decease casts a deep gloom over the community.

Taken Back.

W. J. Robinson, who escaped from the work house some months since, was arrested yesterday morning and returned to the institution from which he had managed to escape yesterday evening. It is alleged that he was in the Twelfth ward station house Thursday night for drunkenness, and was released on payment of a fine, which is most probably a mistake, as there is no officer in charge of that institution who is authorized to determine cases and impose fines. He was arrested, at all events, at the Central Exchange Hotel, which fact was communicated to the Mayor's Office by the public telegraph of two officers, Moore and Demler, who went out and brought him to the central station, from whence he was taken to the work house last evening.

A Caution.

Messrs. Straw & Morton, general agents of the Singer Sewing Machines, desire to caution the public against certain sewing machine canvassers, who flit from house to house, representing themselves as agents for two machines, one being the "Singer." If the party visited express a desire to purchase a "Singer," the so-called agent agrees to furnish one, but asserts that he cannot "conscientiously recommend it." The general agents very properly denounce this as a base trick. They will not furnish the "Singer" through canvassers at any price or upon any terms. They prefer meeting purchasers face to face at the sales room, No. 20 Sixth street, and will guarantee that they will be dealt with honestly and faithfully.

City Lots at McFarland's Grove by Auction.

These lots are handsomely situate at McFarland's Grove, on Fifth avenue, between the Oakland Passenger Railway and Pennsylvania Railroad, within three minutes' walk of Roup's station. It is needless to speak of this well-known and beautiful situation. A free excursion train will leave the Union Depot at half past one o'clock next Monday afternoon to convey grown persons to and from the great sale of lots. See McIlwaine's auction advertisement.

Every One

Is probably aware that Pier, Dannals & Co. make cream ale at the Oregon Brewery, on Stevenson street, and that they make it of the best qualities of malt, hops and water—the only ingredients entering into its composition.

Magnetic Traveling Stones.

They have walking stones in Australia, and, as we are informed, they have traveling stones in Nevada. Here is a description: They were almost perfectly round, the majority of them as large as a walnut, of a dark color and of an irony nature. When distributed about the floor, table, or any other level surface, within two or three feet of each other, they immediately begin traveling toward a common center; and there huddle up in a bunch, like a lot of eggs in a nest. A single stone removed a distance of three and a half feet, upon being released, at once started off with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity to join its fellows; taken away four or five feet it remained motionless. They are found in a region that, although comparatively level, is nothing but barren rock. Scattered over this barren region are little basins, from a few feet to a rod in diameter, and it is in the bottom of these that the rolling stones are found. They are from the size of a pea to five or six inches in diameter. The cause of these stones rolling together is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be loadstone or magnetic iron ore.—Seaside Oracle.

A Bohemian's Portrait.

Vice President Colfax is severe on George Alfred Townsend. In closing a letter to the Indianapolis Journal, Mr. Colfax says: "Before I close this letter, I want to say a word or two about this man 'Gath,' to whom I have been compelled to refer several times. He is utterly beneath the notice of a statesman, and his ridiculous efforts to achieve a little notoriety by such persistent abuse of a man of Morton's caliber and standing in the party only excites derision among those who know who and what he is. He has written more slander in the last ten years than any man in the profession. Money and notoriety are his chief ends in life. No respectable journalist in Washington associates with him, and he has again and again sought membership in the Correspondents' Club, but to a man they refuse to associate with him. Such is the man who is hired by newspapers like the Chicago Tribune to fling his dirty pen against Republican statesmen, because they dare stand up for the maintenance of true Republican principles in our enactments appertaining to the late rebel States."

Elegant Suburban Residence.

A rare opportunity is now offered those that have been seeking an eligible place in the country to remove from the heat, noise and dirt of the city. Messrs. Oliver McClintock & Co. offer for rent. upon very favorable terms, an elegant and admirably arranged house with beautiful grounds, located within fifteen minutes walk of City Hall, Allegheny, upon the Perrysville plank road, now being relaid with new plank, and close upon the line of the Pleasant Valley Passenger Railway, now being extended to its terminus at the postoffice, Pittsburgh. The grounds are handsomely laid out and covered with fine forest trees, and from its location this property combines more of the advantages and conveniences of both city and country than any other in the market. Full particulars may be obtained by applying at Oliver McClintock & Co.'s Carpet Store, 23 Fifth avenue.

BONDS at Frankfort, 96@96¼.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, quiet.

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 112¾@113.

IF THE DUTIES are taken off from imported coal, the taxes should be removed from the domestic production.

THE passage of Bingham's Cuban resolution in the House was a great triumph for the Administration. The resolution is copied almost word for word from the message of Tuesday last.

FRIENDLINESS to the great pipe bill swindle is said to have rendered Mr. George K. Anderson anything but popular with the oil producors of his district. He resigned the office of President of the Petroleum Association feeling his position to be unpleasant, and there was no remonstrance against his retirement. The memory of the pipe fraud is still fresh and we think Mr. Anderson counts without his host in depending on the producers to sustain him in his present contest for senatorial honors in the Erie-Crawford district.

THE most valuable autographs in a rare collection at the Capital of the State are two which passed through a bank during the memorable Mackey-Irwin battle last winter. These are well worthy preservation, as they tell of bribed Legislators and trickery and dishonesty in high places. They represent the shining pieces which led a factious and dishonest set of traitors to fly the regular Republican caucus nomination for the treasuryship and sell out body and soul, politics and principles, to the opposition. These autographs, attached to bank checks, were originally made by a prominent oil operator, who is now endeavoring to find place in the Senate to represent an honest and intelligent constituency.

THE House has disposed of the Cuban question for the present by adopting, (102 to 88) the following resolution:

> Be it resolved, &c., That the President is hereby authorized to remonstrate against the barbarous manner in which the war in Cuba has been conducted, and if he shall deem it expedient to solicit the co-operation of other governments in such measures as he may deem necessary to secure from both contending parties an observance of the laws of war recognized by civilized nations.

—This proposition is equally humane and statesmanlike. In the interests of civilization, it protests against the cruelties which have marked the Cuban contest, while it precludes any recognition of a legal state of belligerency except with the co-operative approval of other governments to reinforce our intervention.

IF SECRETARY FISH retires from the State Department, the country will know the true reason to be that he is weary of office, not that the office is weary of him. He accepted its responsibilities with reluctance, has obeyed them with credit to himself, with honor to the country, and to the hearty satisfaction of the President, and has more than once signified his wish to lay the burthen of duty down. How absurd to suppose that the President should desire the retirement of a confidential adviser whose advice he has always followed, and whose policy he has never failed to sustain, and sustains yet! And it is quite as absurd to suppose that he can have any successor who should be able to lead the Executive counsels in any other direction than that which now decisively indicates the foreign policy of this Administration. England could gain nothing, Spain could lose nothing, and the Republic would profit nothing, by any possible change in the head of our State Department.

THE Republicans of Philadelphia have nominated their full tickets. For Congress, Messrs. Myers and Kelly, are again selected. A schism in the Second district gives Mr. O'Neill a rival, but both of them will probably withdraw. The first district is strongly Democratic, and Hunkle, the Republican nominee, has a bad show for an election. In the legislative ticket we are glad to see a decided improvement upon that of last year. B. W. Thomas is the candidate for Senator to succeed Nagle, and ought to succeed. For the Assembly, Messrs. Hong, Adaire, Bunn, Davis and Stokes are dropped. Messrs. Elliott and Johnston, Cloud, Albright, Smith, Comly and Miller are re-nominated. The only objectionable names on the list are those of W. F. Smith and Charles Kleckner. The notorious Bunn was selected for Register of Wills. His election is doubtful. As a whole, with these exceptions, the tickets are acceptable to the Republicans of Philadelphia, and will be chosen in October.

O. B. DELAMETER, ESQ., of Meadville, one of the leading lawyers of the State, we are glad to learn has permitted his name to be used by his friends for the Republican Senatorial nomination in the Erie-Crawford district. It is of just such material that that hitherto misrepresented district should find a successor to Lowry. He has, through a long and useful life, resided in Crawford county, sustaining an unimpeachable character, and preserving the good will and respect of all his neighbors and business acquaintances. A man of large understanding, strongly defined character and sufficient wealth to place him above the temptations of the cheque makers of Harrisburg, he seems eminently fitted and qualified for the place. He is largely identified with the interests of the district and has contributed much through his own business labor and activity to its general prosperity and development. The fullest measure of confidence can safely be reposed in such a man, and in view of the weak material brought against him, we feel assured that he will walk over the course to easy triumph.

THE good people of Crawford and Erie counties have an interesting query with which to trouble their thinking powers. They would know what motive induces Mr. George K. Anderson to make wicked fight for the State Senate. The thirst for honor and power and fame will urge most men into the bitter war of politics to secure personal elevation, but there are many thoughtful people who credit Mr. A. with ambition of another quality. With an appetite whetted and keenly set last winter at Harrisburg by his connection with the Treasury sale, he is fresh for new intrigue and jobbery, and doubtless feels that he could accomplish more in a senatorial seat than at his old post in the lobby. Some are uncharitable enough to suppose that he has in view the passage of an act legalizing the use of bank cheques in certain cases, together with a proviso making it a penal offense for any bank officer to deliver over to curious autograph seekers any financial papers after they have accomplished their purposes. Had such a law been in force last winter, damaging evidence in legible black and white would not now be in existence to prove the venality of some people who are willing to buy unscrupulous legislators who offer themselves for sale like sheep in the shambles.

A PARAGRAPH in yesterday morning's telegrams from Washington to the Associated Press supports the statement made a week or two since, that the reporters at the Capital for the Association are in the conspiracy to embroil our Government in the Cuban question. We reprint the paragraph now referred to:

> The excitement in the Capital owing to the state of Cuban affairs exceeds anything ever before witnessed. Private assurance of the recast of the whole Cabinet is freely given by the President and ominous hints of impeachment. Butler is emphatically execrated by the Republicans.

Such a report has no claims upon the public confidence. The talk of an unprecedented excitement over this miserable question is all bosh. The story about impeachment and a recast of the Cabinet are equally absurd and contradictory. A proposition to impeach would not irresistibly lead General Grant to offer a recast of his Cabinet,—if we know anything of the man. The tempest of feeling may be as terrific as the reporter puts it, but it is all in a tea-pot. We cheerfully admit that the President's message and the Bingham resolution have stirred up a tremendous excitement among the fifty Democrats and thirty odd Republicans, bond holders, manifest-destiny chaps and all, who have failed in their attempts to bring on a war with Spain, and the perpetual abandonment of our Alabama claims against England, but their impotent chagrin is really not of the slightest permanent consequence. Their squirming reminds one of the performances of a cluster of the cimex lectularia when touched with corrosive sublimate. And the Associated Press reporter is evidently one of the sufferers. We protest against his continued misrepresentations, of a situation where a decisive Republican majority supports the Executive policy.

IS HE ELIGIBLE?

The point has been raised that Mr. Geo. K. Anderson, aspirant for Senatorial honors in the Erie-Crawford district, is not eligible to that high office, inasmuch as he held his residence last October at 1612 Green street, Philadelphia. The State Constitution clearly provides that (Sec. VIII., Article I.)

"No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained the age of twenty-five years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State four years next before his election and the last year thereof an inhabitant of the district from which he shall be chosen, unless he shall have been absent on public business of the United States or of this State," etc.

Mr. Anderson was registered and voted as a citizen of Philadelphia in the fall of 1869, and unless he can make out that his skillful manipulation of certain members of the Legislature last winter to secure the defeat of the regular Republican caucus nominee for the State Treasurship, pertained to the "public business" of the Commonwealth, we marvel how he can make good his eligibility for the Senate from the district he would represent. Let our Republican friends of those parts pause in advance of nomination, for Mr. Anderson cannot take his seat, even if elected, and whosoever shall receive the next highest number of votes for the office in the district, Democrat or Republican, will probably be awarded the place.

WHO FATHERS IT?

The new party movement seems to be without a father. No one will own the bantling. Even the Commercial fights shy of it; and while naturally inclined to take it up and fondle it, is still too much afraid of dirtying its hands to take the risk.

For awhile it was thought the political Temperance men would acknowledge its paternity; but they, too, are offish, and deny positively all agency in getting the movement up. To their credit be it said, they prefer to wait and see what the Republicans will do before attempting to inaugurate a revolt, which anticipates all just cause of quarrel.

Who, then, will answer as parents or sponsors at the baptism of this child? The call is published without a name attached to it; every one you speak to on the street denies having signed it or favored it; and while many are suspected of a sneaking fondness for such an enterprise, all of them are too shrewd to show their hands in connection with it.

If the scheme were a legislative one; if the proposed revolt could be justified on good and tenable grounds; if there were any real necessity for setting up an opposition to the regular organization of the Republican party, men of character and influence would not be ashamed to own their connection with it or assume responsibility for it.

What then? Does it not follow that what every one suspected is ashamed of should be scrupulously avoided by all? Who, with any respect for himself, is going to respond to an anonymous call, or blindly join a band without a leader? The worship of the veiled prophet of Khorassan would have some claim to respect beside such political madness as this.

REPUBLICANS! Stand by the old flag! No one is ashamed of it. We made a noble fight under it for Fremont; and have conquered thrice beneath its folds with Lincoln and Grant. That flag does not lack good and noble names to sanctify it. Who, then, will abandon it for the black flag of rebellion, unsanctified by a single name, to march no one knows whither, and under leaders masked from public recognition?

THE XXIXth DISTRICT.

The Republicans of the XXIXth Senatorial District, Crawford and Erie counties, will be called upon shortly to select a candidate for the Senate to succeed Morrow B. Lowry, who, through political treachery, has so lost caste with the party as to cause his retirement from the field, fearing to again go before an outraged constituency for their suffrages. A people once sold out will be careful that the affliction is not repeated, and they will be more prudent and discriminating in the selection of their representatives. They will frown upon demagogues who may offer themselves, whose political records are black with bribery, duplicity, unfaithfulness and treachery, and will seek out good, pure and true men who have not figured in the bargains and sales which marked certain proceedings in Harrisburg last winter. They will assert with the ballot at the polls that no man who has used money to buy a member of the Legislature from his allegiance to his party, principles and his constituency, can be trusted in a position where he himself might in turn be bought or used by schemes against the interests of the Commonwealth and the people.

The forthcoming primary meetings of the district will therefore be watched with interest by all the good and faithful Republican citizens of the State. In that quarter above all others should the intelligent voters rebuke in no uncertain way the ring of sham Republicans that sold out the party last winter at Harrisburg and aimed to disorganize its ranks everywhere and bring ruin to its doors, while they should feast and fatten in the camp of the rejoicing enemy. It is essential for the purity of politics, the interests of the general people and of the State, that those rotten branches and their abettors should be scourged at the bar of public opinion, and forever consigned to the ignominious place in estimation which they so richly deserve. To those of our readers in that district we earnestly say, do your full duty. Let not personal favoritism or private relationship prevent your voting against any man who has sold, or brought about the sale of your district and all the voters in it. Eschew entirely the men who, rich in worldly means, have lavished their filthy lucre to overturn the Republican majority in the Legislature, who have bought week-kneed and avaricious and dishonest members to depart from honor and principle to defeat a candidate for office who had the full, fair and honest caucus nomination of his party. Remember, only part of the programme of the bolters and disorganizers of last winter was carried out. Their schemes temporarily failed, but with new recruits, if any such can be obtained, they will be again resumed. Will you add one to their number, and thus strengthen a coalition formed to break down the great Republican party and to rob and plunder the treasury of the State, and to sacrifice its best interests to accomplish personal ends and objects? We have abiding faith in your honesty and intelligence, your love of principle, devotion to our great party, to the interests of our Commonwealth, and we think, nay we know, you will not send to Harrisburg one who has trained or been trained in the Lowry school of politics.

GARFIELD'S CONTRIVANCE.

A Chicago journal which has, in the discussions upon the funding question, steadily upheld the interests of the national banks, now insists that the Garfield currency bill "is a distinct and palpable step, though not a very long one, towards specie payment." We cannot see it in that light, and the press generally agree with us.

The bill contemplates two different propositions: the first, to pay off and cancel the three per cent. certificates, the banks being compelled to substitute therefor greenbacks or gold in their reserves, and, second, an inflation, pure and simple, of the currency by the addition to its volume of fifty-millions of new bank paper. We approve of this disposal of the three per cents., but the country would save the sum of $1,350,000 annually in interest, if the gold were applied, instead, to the redemption of six per cent. bonds. The bill proposes, in other words, to pay $1,350,000 annually for the cost of a financial experiment. Certainly not to reduce the volume of the currency, for we replace, dollar for dollar, the certificates with new bank paper. These certificates are not currency, and never were really so considered. They have been held as an investment and tho' the rate of interest was low, yet that was even better for the banks, than a reserve all in greenbacks which bear no interest at all. Of course, the greenbacks must now take the place in the reserves, for no banker would use gold for that purpose, while it is worth 15 per cent. more in the market. The banks would appear to lose by this operation, but they gain an ample compensation in the withdrawal of the amount in greenbacks, and the greater control they will thus secure over the finances of the country. When all the greenbacks shall have been withdrawn, the banks will furnish all our currency, and the Government will be in their hands. For this, the system must be maintained in good credit at all hazards. Resumption will be a question which these institutions will be able to control absolutely, for the Government will be in no situation to force measures as long as the note of a broken bank is worth more than the paper of a nominally solvent institution, as is the case now and would be then. Seventy-five or hundred millions of this paper thrown back on the Treasury for redemption in a crisis, with gold to be realized from bonds sold in a panicky market, would present a category forbidding such a crisis as long as it could be prevented. We are justified in declaring that the national banks would more completely have the mastery of the Government than now. And now they have an influence in affairs quite as potent as is for the public good.

How this situation can be regarded as marking a palpable progress toward resumption, is beyond our ability to see. We should as readily admit that the desired resumption was "palpably" to be accelerated by the fifty millions inflation also provided for by this bill.

—Instead of calling it simply a currency bill, the measure should rather be styled a bill to confirm and enlarge the powers and privileges of the national banks, and to postpone indefinitely that resumption which the country desires, but which the banks will debar us from to the last possible hour. Let us call things by their right names!

Since the above was written, the following paragraph in the New York Evening Post comes under our eye. On the same subject it says:

> In short, this bill is an enormous scheme for inflating the currency, for postponing indefinitely the resumption of specie payments, and for checking the growth of confidence in the financial soundness of the nation. We cannot believe that it will find favor with the Senate.

West Hickory.

The excitement in this place is intense. On Friday last the "Bird" well, which is on the Tuttle farm, commenced flowing oil at a fearful rate. This well is being drilled through casing, and bids fair to be a first class well. It is owned by Mr. Frank Irwin, of Rouseville. The "Venture" well still continues to pump its 200 barrels per day. Quite a number of new wells on this tract will be down the coming week.

On the Wilkins farm, which joins the Tuttle farm on the south, the greatest activity is noticeable. The McNair well, on lease No. 1, is down and will be tested tomorrow. There are rigs up on five other leases, one of which drilling has commenced.

On the Jones farm, Mr. Binney's well is being rapidly pushed forward. On this well is used one of Osborne's 18 horse boilers, with double engine, which renders it impossible to stop on the centre, and makes it impossible for tools to be stuck.

On the Faulkner farm, adjoining the Wilkins farm, there are four rigs in process of erection.

On the H. W. Scott farm, the Scott well, No. 1, is pumping 75 to 80 barrels per day. There are quite a large number of rigs on this tract and a few days will tell the story. This farm joins the Fagundas farm on the south.

On the Fagundas farm, the work of development is being rapidly pushed forward. This farm is owned by Messrs. Neyhart, Grandin & Fisher, and contains 159 acres; they refuse to lease any portion of this farm, but intend operating it themselves; they have already twelve wells started. A large number of lots have been leased for building purposes. No drinking saloons are allowed on the premises.

THE junior, freshmen and scientific crews of Harvard attempted their annual race on Charles river, on Saturday, but owing to the rough water encountered a wet time. The scientifics pulled the course, but their shell nearly half filled. The boats of the freshmen and juniors were both swamped, but the latter, by sturdy swimming, towed their boat in and took the second prize. The freshmen were picked up and saved their boat. The race was not timed.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The general statistics of the United Presbyterian Church for the year ending May, 1870, are as follows: Synods, 8; Presbyteries, (including three Independents), 59; ministers, 551; congregations, 727; membership, 69,556; Sunday schools, 575; teachers and officers, 6,671; scholars, 42,907; theological seminaries, 5; colleges and academies, 4; students last year, 625; contributions to Church funds and salaries, $819,364. The Mission Boards report quite a membership and other interesting items.

The United Presbyterian thinks while it is right that colored men should be educated and made preachers, condemns the building of a college at St. Louis, for the education of colored ministers exclusively. The idea of this caste is not in harmony with the spirit of the age, much less in sympathy with the gospel.

One of our Western cities, (Milwaukee,) in striking contrast with Sabbath-desecration New York, has passed an ordinance prohibiting dancing on the Lord's day.

The Advance reports that a wealthy Jew, in Monterey, to show his appreciation of what Protestantism has done for his race, paid five thousand dollars in gold for one of the finest Jewish churches in that city, and donated it to the Protestants, and a congregation of over two thousand persons worship there every Sabbath day.

Rev. A. L. Stone, D.D., Congregational minister of San Francisco, affirms that California is fast becoming a land of drunkards. He says young men drink everywhere; wine is on the tables generally, and almost everybody drinks. Vine-growing is a speciality in California; twenty-two millions of grape-vines having been set out during the past season.

In the dedicatory sermon of the pastor, Rev. E. P. Goodwin, of the First Congregational Church, Chicago, he discussed the question of non-going to church, he remarked we must make people in rags as welcome as people in spotless broadcloth. We must so treat new-comers that they can't help coming again. Treat a man coldly, and you may not persuade him to come any more.

At the late election of the Episcopal Bishop of New Hampshire, held at Dover, Dr. Henry A. Coit was elected by the clergy by a vote of nearly two to one for all others, but the laity voted nearly unanimously against concurrence. Six additional clerical ballots failed to make other choice. A conference was finally ordered, and Prof. Niles, of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., was chosen. The ultimate success of the laity in the selection of their candidate gave them great satisfaction.

Connecticut has furnished twenty Bishops to the Episcopal Church, of whom about one-half are from Hartford.

Rev. Dr. Henry Kendall, formerly pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of this city, was elected by the late Re-united Presbyterian General Assembly one of the Secretaries of the new Board of Home Missions.

The Independent represents that three children of Baptist parents, now grown up, insisted in joining St. Micheals Episcopal Church, at Kingston, Jamaica, to be immersed. The rector, Mr. Price, consulted the Bishop, who said "there should be no objection to it," and the immersion took place.

It is stated that in the "Narrative of the State of Religion," presented by Dr. Cuyler to the Presbyterian Assembly, the Doctor mentioned that several churches had tried with satisfaction the plan of making the eldership rotary, rather than permanent. The paragraph, however, was stricked out.

The Episcopal Convention of New Jersey have introduced the reform of minority representation, the first religious body, we believe, that has attempted the inovation. Each voter can vote on his ballot for as many persons as are to be elected, or he may give the same number of votes for any one of the candidates.

At the late meeting of the Virginia Baptist Association, one of the speakers from Roanoke stated that the most formidable obstacles in his region were Dunkardism and drunkardism.

Considerable feeling was roused in this community for and against the proposition at the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in this city, to regard "Papal Baptism" invalid, but the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly, according to the Independent, voted that "Unitarianism, "Popish" and "Campbellite" baptisms are invalid. This is a bold step and may give trouble hereafter.

It is reported that a zealous brother at the Plymouth church prayer-meeting, Brooklyn, said, in his remarks, that he had been living without sin. Mr. Beecher replied, "I think you ought to have been in heaven long ago."

The first time the new bell of the Episcopal church in Boise city, Idaho Territory, was rung for service, a man remarked, as he passed into the church, "Well, I have not been into church for eighteen years, but that bell has called me out."

The New York Observer records the fact that in the most crowded churches in New York city, there is a degree of Christian courtesy worthy of the highest commendation. The doors of all the pews are thrown open until they are full, and then the aisles are filled with seats, the officers becoming door keepers in the house of the Lord, attending alike to the humble poor as well as the richest visitor.

The Episcopal Convention of Long Island adopted a rule that the reports of parishes shall hereafter state whether their churches are insured, and for what proportion of their value.

Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman, Chaplain to the United States Senate, and pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church at the Capital, is talked of for Bishop in that Church, at the election in 1872.

Rev. Dr. W. Pinkney, of Washington City, recently elected Assistant Bishop of Maryland, was originally a Methodist, and was at one time preparing for the ministry of that Church, for which purpose he entered Princeton Theological Seminary. His theological views changed while there, and finally he was induced to enter the ministry of the Episcopal Church.

A Magnetized Island.

A curious discovery has lately been made by the telegraphers on the little island of St. Pierre, Miquelon. There are two telegraph stations on the island; one is worked by an American company, which receives messages from Newfoundland and sends them on to Sidney, using a powerful battery and the ordinary Morse signals. The other is worked by the French Transatlantic Company, who employ exceedingly delicate instruments in receiving messages from Brest and Duxbury. These very sensitive instruments were found to be seriously affected by earth currents—that is, currents depending on some rapid changes in the electrical condition of the island—which interfered very much with the working of the line. After adopting measures to obviate this difficulty, it was discovered that these earth-currents were due in part to the operations of the powerful battery of the American Telegraph Company, that battery, every time it was used, actually charging, as a Leyden jar, the whole little rocky island of St. Pierre, Miquelon. And it was found that by a proper disposition of the French instruments, every word sent over the American line could be made to leave its fac simile with the French company; and this, too, though the two lines nowhere come within several hundred yards of each other, the only connection of the two being through the earth.

AMONG the attendants at the recent picnic in celebration of the semi-centennial anniversary of the settlement of Indianapolis, was Mr. Isaac Martz, who came to Indiana from Ohio in 1816. He, with a twin brother, Moses, married the twin sisters. This double marriage was celebrated on the same day. Each couple has had twelve children, each having had seven boys and five girls. At the time of their marriage the brothers were of the same height exactly, and within one pound of the same weight, which was one hundred and seventy-five pounds, and for a space of twenty-five years continued with in two pounds of that figure. The brothers, with their wives, are both living. The former are fifty-eight years old, and the latter fifty-four. All were born on the 27th day of the month, and were married on the same day of the month also. The twin boys mentioned are now twelve years old, and their mother often finds it impossible to distinguish the one from the other. Death has been equally kind to each family. Ten children remain to each.

WANT OF VITALITY.

Sometimes there is a lack of vitality in large and apparently well developed frames. Herculean sinews and muscles are not always indicative of stamina and constitutional vigor in their possessor. Health depends more upon the condition of the stomach, the liver and the bowels, than upon the breadth of the shoulders, or the size of loose levers and pulleys of the system in which strength is supposed to reside. All of this grand animal machinery is of itself no protective against sickness and decay. Easy and perfect digestion, regular and healthy secretions, uncontaminated blood, and a regular discharge of the waste matter of the body through the intestines, the kidneys and the pores, are the most potent safeguards against disease, the best guaranties of longevity. To promote these objects is the great end and purpose of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The ingredients of which the Great Tonic and Alterative is composed are taken solely from the vegetable kingdom, and their medicinal virtues are not counterbalanced by the acid and poisonous elements which exist, more or less, in all the powerful mineral drugs. Sufferers from indigestion, biliousness, intermittent fevers, nervous debility or constipation, not only find immediate relief from the use of this agreeable stimulant and invigorant, but becomes conscious, as time wears on, of an increase of constitutional elasticity and vital force. Labor and exposure no longer produce the same effect upon them as heretofore, and they feel as if they had acquired a new hold on life, a reserve of mental and physical energy. This has been the experience of thousands of both sexes, and every day adds to the mass of confirmatory testimony. Whenever the temperature and state of the atmosphere, exercises a depressing influence over the minds and bodies of invalids, Hostetter's Bitters is the tonic upon which they can rely for swift and permanent restoration.

PLANING MILL MEN
And Others,
TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned has letters patent of the United States for the improved construction of weather-boarding, inside lining and of wainscoting for houses. The weather-boarding, by this patent improvement, being more particularly intended for vertical use, and combines great durability and beauty of appearance; and it is so constructed as to entirely avoid the use of joint strips, and to prevent water from entering the joint of the gaping or the showing of the joints by the action of the weather on the timber.
Inside lining and wainscoting by this new method are so constructed as to form perfect panels as cheaply as by the ordinary flooring boards alone; thereby preventing the showing of the joints from any cause, and leaving no refuges for bugs.
He has also purchased the patent right of what is commonly known as the "Moulded Weather-boarding."
He has disposed of the following territorial and shop rights in Allegheny county, for both patents, to wit:
To G. A. Mundorff, the right of the territory south of the river in said county.
To McQuewan & Douglass, the right for the First ward, Pittsburgh.
To Hill, Patterson & Co., shop rights for their mill, Sixth ward, Pittsburgh.
To Alex. McClure, for the borough of McKeesport.
To Parker & Paul, for First, Second, Third and Fourth wards, city of Allegheny.
To Reed Brothers, shop right at their mill in Seventh ward, city of Allegheny.
To Dunham, Saint & Co., for the boroughs of Sharpsburg and Etna; also the townships of Shaler and Indiana.
All persons are warned against infringing upon either of said patents, and those wishing to purchase will please call, or address me, at No. 75 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

The Stock market is heavy and lower, the reason assigned being a further reduction of passenger and freight rates on the western trunk roads. The largest dealing was in New York Central and Hudson. The market closed dull and irregular, with Erie, Lake Shore and Western Union Telegraph strong. The balance of the list was weak and in some cases down to the lowest point of the day. The movement in Lake Shore occasioned considerable gossip on the street, especially as it is understood the present bull movement is not under the auspices of the Vanderbilt party. It is reported Daniel Drew sold 30,000 shares of Lake Shore at 99 for sixty days at 1 per cent. The purchases against this put will probably explain the advance in the stock.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, June 17, 1870.

The metal market presents but little that is new or important. There is a moderate consumptive demand, but as the arrivals continue light there is no accumulation of stock, and consequently prices are pretty well sustained, and there is no disposition to force sales. The supply, however, notwithstanding it is comparatively small, is fully up the requirements of consumers, and aside from this there is no inquiry, as the mills seem disposed to carry just as little stock as possible. It is believed now that the house bill, reducing the duty on foreign pig metal from $9 to 7 per ton, and on scrap iron from $7 to 6, will pass the Senate and become a law.

The market for bar iron is steady with a fair business in the aggregate, and card rates are pretty generally adhered to. Nails, in consequence of the suspension of the Wheeling mills, are very firm at $3⅞@4 per keg. The mills are nearly, if not all, running single turn, however, and it is not likely that they will stop before the middle of July or the 1st of August.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, June 17, 1870.

The oil market continues very quiet, and, singular as it may seem, while crude was reported stronger refined was weaker. Some of the oil men, having become dissatisfied with the oil business, have turned their attention to wheat, which is now and has been for several days past considerably excited, affording a fine field for those who are of a speculative turn. It is stated that several of the brokers combined and sold 10,000 bush short for July, in Chicago, which would indicate that they have not much confidence in present prices being sustained.

Sale of 300 bbls spot at 11½; 1,630 (low gravity) at 11½; and 1,000 seller all year at 11⅞. Spot or seller June may be quoted at 11@11½; seller all year, 11⅝; and buyer all year, 13⅛@13⅜.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Beeves: the number offering was 1,300 to-day after 1,450 for yesterday; trade very depressed and many lots remain unsold and prices constantly weakening. There is no price for Texans, butchers not wanting them at 10c; thin Illinois sold at 12@14c; fair to good 15@16c, and only very fine sold at 16½c. To-day's offerings were 36 cars at Communipaw, 28 cars at Weehawkin and 12 cars at 100th street; heavy receipts are expected next Monday. The arrivals this week amount to over 7,000 head. PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, June 17, 1870.

The exciting cause of the advance in breadstuffs is understood to be the continued bad prospects of a fair European yield, and further purchases in England for the use of points which have heretofore been looked to as sources of supply. The advices from France are particularly unfavorable in regard to the harvest, and large purchases have been made in New York within the past few days on French account. As might be expected, this has infused new life into speculators, [illegible] ready a very large amount of wheat and flour has been purchased by this class of operators, to be held for an advance. The Chicago Tribune, of Thursday, in commenting on the money market, says, "There is an active demand from grain speculators who are selling for July delivery, and buying the grain now for cash to carry until then. The difference between cash and seller July is enough to pay a good profit, if the good condition of grain bought now for July delivery can be relied on, and of which there seems no particular grounds for doubt at present. The large amount of grain in store here, and now being carried by the banks, and the continued drain of currency to the country to pay for more are sufficient reasons for money being tight."

ASHES—Steady but unchanged; Common Soda, 4c; Refined, 4⅛c; Pearls, 9⅛c; Pots, 7⅛c.

BUTTER is quiet and unchanged. We continue to quote at 14@18 for fair to prime, and 19@20 for choice.

BROOM CORN—Sales at 13@13⅛.

BEANS—There is scarcely any inquiry and the market is dull and prices nominal at $1,50@1,75 per bushel.

BROOMS—Store prices: Fancy, $5,50; No. 1, $4.50; No. 2, $4; No. 3, $3.50; Common, $2,50@3.

FEATHERS—Quiet and unchanged at 80@85 cts. to the trade.

EGGS—The market is quiet and unchanged—23c seems to be the ruling quotation.

FLOUR—The market continues strong and considerably excited, and prices have advanced fully 25c per bbl, and even at the advance, dealers are very indifferent about selling, as they are strongly impressed with the belief that the top has not yet been reached. We now quote western flours at $6.25@6.50 for good established brands, and it looks to-day as if $7 would be the figure within the next forty-eight hours. And even at the advance, flours are cheaper here, relatively, than in the West, and the dealer who replaces at present prices has little or no margin.

GRAIN—Wheat, is excited and in active demand, and 3@5 cts higher, and all that offers is taken readily at the advance. Dealers are paying $1.20@1.25 for fair to prime, red, and the mills, we presume, would pay more. Oats firm and in limited supply, Philadelphia having taken a considerable quantity out of this markt within the past few days, though prices are not quotably higher. Dealers are paying 50 in first hands and furnishing sacks—54@55 cts is asked for round lots, free on board cars, though as yet we have heard of no sales above 53. Rye is in better demand and firmer, and may be fairly quoted at 90@95—the latter quotation is an outside price. Corn continues dull though it is held with more tenacity as holders generally are sanguine of an advance; 85@87 may be given as the ruling quotations in the absence of sales.

GROCERIES—There is a continued good demand for Sugars, otherwise, the market is rather quiet. Cuba Sugar, 10⅛@11; P. R., 10⅜@11⅛; New Orleans, 10⅛@12; Molasses Sugars, 9⅛@10⅛; Crushed, 14⅛; "A" Coffee, 13⅛; "B," 13; Extra C, 12½; "C," 12⅛. Coffee is firm but unchanged, at 18⅛@22⅛, for ordinary to choice Rio. RIVER NEWS.

The river was stationary all day yesterday, with 6 feet in the channel by the Monongahela marks.

The Belle, Capt. J. P. Smith, is the independent packet for Brownsville and Geneva to-day, leaving at 5 P. M.

The Glendale, Capt. J. M. Hare, will positively depart for St. Louis to day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The Juniata, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is announced to depart for Cincinnati to-day.

The Granite Sate departed for Portsmouth last evening with an average trip. Pilots—Abrams and Morris.

Capt. David A. Haney, a well known steamboatman, and who for some years past has been engaged in the mountain trade, arrived here from S. Louis yesterday.

The hull for Capt. G. D. Moore's new boat, it is expected, will be launched within the next ten days.

The Wild Duck, from St. Louis, was due last night. She will load for a return trip forthwith.

—An unknown young man, 25 or 30 years old, boarded the Emma Floyd, at Evansville, on Sunday, and called at the clerk's office, when Clerk Wise accosted him with, "Where are you going, young man?" He replied, "I'm going to Jesus," when Wise replied "The fare is $2, sir." He paid his fare and was shown to his room. After the boat had reached a point nearly opposite the mouth of Salt River the passenger went down to the lower deck, and picking up a broom jumped into the river in a coal-box. The box careened, emptying the passenger into the river. The boat was immediately stopped, and the young man rescued from drowning by the mate with the aid of the yawl. On reaching the shore he ran away, and when last seen he was making tall time for the woods. He was, of course, insane, and unknown to all on board.

—The Cincinnati Gazette says: The insurance companies of this city that have risks on the steamer Natchez have notified Capt. Leathers that if he intends to make the race with the R. E. Lee from New Orleans to Cairo, they desire to cancel their policies. No race will take place. The Natchez will attend to her business, and make all the money she can, but it is understood that Capt. Cannon will try to beat the Natchez' time every trip, to please the boat builders around the falls.

—Fitch, the real inventor of the steamboat, a broken and embittered old man, with feeble health and ruined fortunes, poisoned himself with opium, and was buried in Bardstown, Ky. To this day no monument or head stone marks his resting place, but the fulfillment of his prophesies are shown where ever the steam whistle sounds over the placid waters of rivers, or the turbulent foaming of the sea.

—Accounts have been received of a very heavy snow storm, June 5, throughout Montana. In the Galatin valley it was terrific. All the streams in the Territory were overflowing. At Canyon City the water was within two feet of high water mark of 1866, and rising rapidly. Miners are jubilant over their prospects this year, and say there is no fear for water.

—The steamer Belle Lee, on her way from New Orleans to St. Louis, met with a serious accident at Baton Rouge, Sunday, by which one engine is badly broken. She broke her main shaft, run through both cylinder heads cracked the cylinder and other parts of the machinery. She will be towed to St. Louis for repairs.

—The Cincinnati Commercial says: Yesterday we announced the sale of the towboat Warner at Pittsburgh. She was purchased by Capt. Mart. R. Fisher, Charley Kendall and Mr. Glenn, who are building two barges at Hambleton's yard, of 1,000 tuns burden each, for the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade.

—A Cairo special says: Wm. Carter, who made such a desperate attempt to cut his throat after jumping from the steamer Continental, last Sunday, is still alive and will recover. He does not inform us of the cause of his attempted suicide.

—Capt. Lovell, of the Burksville, has contracted for the building of another boat this summer for the upper Cumberland trade.

—The Cumberland river was rising on Wednesday with 20 feet on Harpeth Shoals.

—The Leonidas passed Vicksburgh on Wednesday.

[Special dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

FORT BENTON, June 17.—The steamer Sallie arrived last night all safe.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

HOME NEWS.

The Weekly Gazette.

The WEEKLY GAZETTE is the largest, cheapest and best family newspaper published in Pennsylvania. It presents each week, in convenient quarto form, forty-eight solid columns of reading matter, original and selected, and made up to suit the wants of country readers. It is thoroughly reliable in politics, advocating the protection of home labor and the general principles of the great Union Republican party. Carefully edited agricultural columns, prove a valuable feature to the farmer, while the Literary, Religious, Political, Telegraph and General News departments are kept up to the fullest requirements of a live, progressive, enterprising and successful family newspaper. The dry goods, grocers, and produce markets are freshly and correctly reported in each edition, and the full reports of cattle sales and operations here and elsewhere for the current week are regularly furnished. Two editions are made, one on Wednesday and one on Saturday, in order to suit the country mails, and subscribers should designate which day's publication they desire. A very limited number of unobjectionable advertisements are published in the WEEKLY GAZETTE, as the space is too valuable to be used for other than news purposes.

Terms per year: one copy, $1 50; in clubs of five, $1 25; in clubs of ten, $1 15, and a copy gratuitous to the getter up of the club. Specimen copies are sent free post paid to any address.

Special Notice.—All members—old and new—of Knapp's Penn'a Battery are requested to attend a special meeting of the Battery, on Thursday evening, June 23d, at Siddon's Hall, Rebecca street, Allegheny.

Away.—Yesterday the coachman of a prominent citizen on Western avenue, Allegheny, disappeared, taking with him a valuable revolver, and leaving a wife and child to the tender care of his employer.

Erratum.—The types made us say in our notice of a wedding at the Third Presbyterian church on Thursday night, that the bride was a daughter of the late Porter R. Friend, Esq. Inasmuch as that well known gentleman is alive and in good health the mistake is quite provoking.

Sudden Death.—Mrs. Catharine Hailman widow of the late J. W. Hailman, of East Liberty, died suddenly about eight o'clock last evening, while attending service in the Presbyterian Church in that place. It is thought she died of heart disease, as she has had symptoms of it for several years.

The Mercantile Agency, R. G. Dun & Co.—We have received a few copies (in advance) of our JULY EDITION of REFERENCE BOOK for the WESTERN STATES. Subscribers having immediate use for them can have one by calling or sending to our offices, 63, 65 and 67 Fourth avenue. GEO. W. BROCK, Manager.

Harper & Brothers.—Elsewhere will be found announced several valuable publications, just issued by this sterling publishing house. Persons desirous of stocking their libraries with good books, and to provide for summer reading, will consult their interests by buying these books and other recent publications of a similar character.

Fishy.—J. R. Thompson yesterday related a fishy story to Alderman McMasters, wherein he charged John Bradley with false pretense for procuring from him two barrels of fish on credit to the amount of $32, by representing a third party owed him the money—the third party subsequently denying all knowledge of him. Warrant issued.

Call in at Col. Egan's, next door to the Masonic Deposit Company, Smithfield street, and buy what books you may need. Books at half price, and all the standard works. Every department from romance to theology represented,—many of them rare and valuable volumes. If you don't see what you want ask for it and it will be forthcoming.

The magnificent new elevator for the conveyance of guests from the ground floor of the Monongahela House to the upper rooms has just been completed and is now in full operation. It is one of the finest, best furnished and neatest elevators in the country, and while a great convenience to the guests, it is a feature and an ornament to the hotel.

The Best.—The New St. Andrew's church on Ninth street is one of the finest church buildings in the country. In this respect it occupies a place similar in church architecture to that occupied by Megraw on the same street, No. 45, in the tobacco trade. One of the most complete stocks, the cheapest prices and the best articles are the specialties of this establishment, No. 45 Ninth street.

Correcting Her.—Union township numbers among its residents John Stacker, who came home Thursday evening, it is said, with an overdose of stimulants, which stimulated him to correct his wife Elizabeth. A large billet of wood came in handy for the purpose and accomplished the work most effectually. Officer Blondin, of Alderman McMaster's police, is after John for aggravated assault and battery.

Amateur Dentistry.—W. D. Lewis was the victim of a painful amateur surgical operation yesterday morning. Two teeth were removed from his mouth—but instead of coming out properly, they went down his throat. The affair occurred during a scuffle with James Painter, at their boarding house near the Copper Works, when James knocked him down and kicked him in the mouth. Painter will be arrested as soon as he can be found.

The past week has exhibited unusual activity in the matrimonial market, and many new households have been inaugurated by the happy couples in the purchase, among other furniture, of a complete stock of the Keystone queensware, from the warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street. The people exhibited their discrimination and appreciation of the best in the market, by supplying their homes with the Keystone ware, which has no superior.

Income Tax.—In the official notification of T. W. Davis, Esq., Collector, we have made a typographical error of stating that "the citizens residing in the 23rd ward, etc." are required to pay up before the 30th inst. Instead of the 23d ward, the notice should have read properly "of the twenty-three wards of Pittsburgh." Citizens of all the wards from the 1st to the 23d will do well to take notice of this correction of an error, as they will save money and trouble by so doing.

Coal Exchange.—The following persons have been chosen directors of the Coal Exchange: Joseph Walton, John C. Risher, Wm. H. Brown, John F. Dravo, George T. Miller, Simpson Horner and B. F. Wilson. John F. Dravo was elected President, and A. Millar Treasurer and Secretary. Messrs. Walton and Wilson were appointed a committee of correspondence on the subject of bridges and other obstructions to the free navigation of the rivers. The solicitors of the Exchange are Messrs. Robert Woods and J. K. Kerr.

The First Race.—The Pittsburgh Barge Club indulged in a little race among themselves yesterday evening about six o'clock. The contesting boats being the "Naid," a six oared barge, and the "Whisper," a four oared scull, both crews had been in training for some time past, and much interest was taken in the affair. The course pulled over was from the Ewalt street bridge to the Suspension bridge. The "Naid" came off victorious by several boat lengths, and was loudly cheered by the observers on the bridge and boat houses. Both crews pulled exceedingly well.

The Knights Templars.

Last evening about ten o'clock the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Knights Templars returned from Williamsport. They seemed to have enjoyed the trip. The following officers have been elected to serve during the ensuing year: Grand Commander, H. B. McKean, of Towanda; Deputy Grand Commander, Charles M. Howell, of Lancaster; Generalissimo, Abraham Miller, of Easton; Grand Captain General, Fitz James Evans, of York; Grand Senior Warden, Nathaniel Smith, of Philadelphia; Junior Grand Warden, Peter C. Shedle, of Pittsburgh; Grand Recorder, Alfred Creigh, of Washington; Grand Treasurer, M. Richards Muckle, of Philadelphia; Grand Prelate, Joseph S. Evans, of West Chester.

Painful Accident.

Yesterday an accident of a very painful nature occurred immediately in front of the GAZETTE building, on the Smithfield street side. Carpenters were engaged in putting up large sign boards on the roof of our four story building, when a sharp chisel fell from the cornice, and swift as an arrow descended, and with the sharp edge first the head of a bright little boy named Joseph Lyttle, son of the well known grocer on Smithfield street. It sunk several inches into the forward part of the skull grazing but not cutting into the brain. The little fellow neither cried nor fell, but only gave up when he had lost sufficient blood to weaken him. Drs. Coffey and Gallaher were at once called and they carefully dressed the wound. The little unfortunate was sleeping under the effects of opiate last night, and the physicians think his terrible injury may not prove fatal. The accident was unforeseen and no blame can be laid to the workmen, but to the wind which shook from its secure place the chisel which did the mischief.

THE LAUGHRAN MURDER.

Court of Oyer and Terminer—Judges Sterrett and Collier—Trial of Nicholas Hoffman for Murder—Third Day's Proceedings.

The Court met at nine o'clock A. M., Judges Sterrett and Collier on the bench. The case of the Commonwealth vs. Nicholas Hoffman was resumed, and the following testimony taken on the part of the Commonwealth:

Jacob Metz, sworn—Am a policeman; reside on Pike street, just back of Stephen Hoffman's; was on duty on the night of the occurrence; about ten minutes of three I heard a rap; I was on the corner of Factory and Penn streets; I answered the call, and with officer Robert Elliott went down to Steve Hoffman's house; when we reached there I went in and took hold of Steve Hoffman; officer John Moon had hold of him and I took him; Moon then went out back; did not see Nick Hoffman there; Moon afterwards came back and took hold of Steve again and took him to the lock-up; did not see Nick until I reached the watch-house; the fuss was over when I reached Hoffman's; saw Laughran in Lemon's house, lying in a back room; I had just made my half-hour round, when I heard the call, and had been at the corner only a few moments; knew Laughran, but had not seen him before that night.

Officer John C. Moon, sworn—Live on Pike street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets; was on that beat on the night of this occurrence; there was pretty much of a spree at Hoffman's and Lemon's; dancing, fiddling and singing all night; the "spree" commenced about nine or ten o'clock; think there was music in both houses; thought there were parties in the houses; passed the houses every half hour; they kept up until half-past two; at that time I started on my round, and thought things had quieted down; after making my round I sat down in my box at Canal and Penn streets to eat a bite; just commenced to eat when I heard a rap; I started out and met officers Colton and Mooney; we went up to Hoffman's saloon, and found the door locked; officer Colton asked them to open the door, stating that he was an officer, and it was opened; can't say who opened it; we three went in; I saw Stephen and Nicholas Hoffman in the bar room; they were the first I saw; Nicholas Hoffman's head, arms and his right hand were very bloody; his head appeared to be in a mass of blood; did not look to see what cuts he had; did not have much time to examine; in the meantime officer James Mooney had taken Nicholas in custody; I took charge of Stephen, who was standing with Nicholas; when I went into the bar room Nicholas was standing near the front door and Stephen was nearer to the door; officers Colton and Mooney, myself, Nicholas and Stephen Hoffman and Stephen's wife were in the room at the time; Stephen Hoffman was doing nothing only talking when I went in but he had his left sleeve tore out of his shirt; Nick was standing there but doing nothing he was I think in his shirt sleeves; I did not see Laughran at that time; I gave Stephen Hoffman in charge of officer Metz and wanted to go in the back yard but officer Cotton objected until we could get a light; I came out at Hoffman's front door, went in at Lemon's front door and back to the kitchen and there lying on the floor is where I first saw Thomas Laughran, lying on his back on the floor; could not say who was there, only stayed long enough to ask who it was and then left.

Cross-examined—At two o'clock there was considerable noise in at Hoffman's, but when I made my half past two o'clock round, the noise had abated some what.

Dr. Donnelly, sworn—Am a physician and surgeon; have been practicing twenty-four years; have practiced in the United States sixteen years; came to Pittsburgh in October, '65; I knew Thomas Laughran, the deceased; never knew him until I was called to see him after he was stabbed; first saw him Friday evening, October 8th, but left without making an examination, understanding that other physicians were there before me; I was sent for; Saturday morning following I was waited upon at my office by some men and requested to meet Dr. Duncan to examine a man who had been stabbed; I went with the men, met Dr. Duncan and examined the patient in the forenoon; the man was lying at No. 61 Thirteenth street, in the Ninth ward; I examined the patient carefully and found him in a dangerous condition, from a penetrating wound by a knife or other sharp instrument which had entered his right breast, and from all indications had penetrated through all the muscles and into the lung. That was the diagnosis or belief entertained by Dr. Duncan and myself. The wound on the breast was from an inch and a half to two inches in length, parallel with the ribs; and as the man was fully developed and muscular, it must have penetrated one inch and a half to two inches into the lung and cavity of the chest; the lung fills up the cavity; we are not permitted to probe those things; there were some other wounds, not of a nature that required special attention or treatment—one was on the back of the neck, a flesh wound; the instrument had struck the bone and glanced off; I did not observe any other wounds—his breathing was very laborious, and he suffered great pain, and continually cried he could not get his breath, and that if we could not relieve his breathing he could not live; he continued in this condition for some days, perhaps eight days; inflamatory condition having somewhat subsided, he felt a little easier—that relief lasted but a short time. He then began to suffer great difficulty in breathing, and continued in that condition until he died, on the morning of thr 22d of October. I was with him a few hours previous to his death; I had visited him several times that day, and feeling confident that he would die, I was anxious to know if he had received the last rites of his church—having ascertained that he had, I returned to my office, and about twelve o'clock at night I visited the dying man; I conversed with him I presume an hour. The reason I remained so long was to impress on his mind—[defence objected—objection sustained.] His mind was perfectly clear, his breathing very short and rapid, his limbs cold, a cold sweat over his body, and the man slowly and surely dying. The day preceding the night of his death we had a consultation. The day before his death Dr. Aughinbaugh was there and the night of his death early in the evening Dr. McGirr was with me. At this, my last visit, I told Laughran that it was the opinion of myself and the other Surgeons that he would die. He had no objections to the information; he said nothing only that he knew that from the first. I said, Laughran, I may never see you again; will you give me the particulars of how you were stabbed, and who stabbed you? I wrote down his words as I interrogated him. I have those words here. What I have written down are his replies to my questions. I remained there about an hour, and he died about seven o'clock on the morning of the 22d, and the statement was made to me after 12 o'clock that morning. The man was perfectly conscious that he was going to die. The man was thoroughly informed of that fact and he must have felt death approaching. He could hardly get his breath. He said he must die if I could not relieve his breathing, and I very plainly told him I could not. There was a man by the name of McNamee present at this time. He saw me writing and heard me asking the questions. There might have been others in and out but I don't recollect them. There was considerable confusion in and about the house. Never seen McNamee before or since to my knowledge.

The counsel for the Commonwealth here offered the statement of deceased to the witness in evidence.

The defense objected on the ground that it was not a voluntary statement, but answers made to interrogations made by the Doctor.

The points were argued ably by Mr. Swartzweider for the objection who was followed by Col. Bayne, contra and Mr. Moore following against the admission of the declarations.

The Court overruled the objections, and admitted the declarations.

THE STATEMENT.

Dr. Donnelly resumed: I have the statement of the deceased written on prescription paper used by physicians; I did not write the questions; I merely took down the answers; I asked deceased how old he was; he replied, "23 years; I then asked him who stabbed him;" [objected to, and objection overruled;] he replied, "I was stabbed by Nicholas Hoffman; three men at me; one kicking me, and the other stabbed me in the back first, and then in the breast." I asked, "In what way did Nicholas Hoffman stab you?" [Objected to and objection overruled;] he replied, "He held the knife thus" (witness holding up his right hand); I asked: "At what time did this occur?" He answered: "It occurred about half-past two o'clock Thursday morning, in October; was taken into the Fort Pitt House by John Lemon." I asked, "How long was you in Hoffman's when the disturbance took place?" [Objected to by defense, and objection sustained.] I asked, "How did the disturbance take place?" [Objected to by defense, and objection overruled.] He replied: "James Hanlon and Hoffman were talking about rolling half blooms of iron, and I made the remark that if we were at Zugg's mills he would have to roll half blooms occasionally. Hoffman took it as an insult that he would have to roll half blooms, and struck me, to prove that he would not."

At this point Court took a recess until half-past one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Court convened at half past one o'clock, and the case was resumed:

Dr. Donnelly was again called to the stand, and the examination in chief continued.

I made the post mortem examination; it was made in the house where the man died, about 11 o'clock A. M. on the 22d of October, Dr. McGirr, Dr. Daly and Dr. Jamison were present; the body was first carefully examined for external appearances of injuries, and only one, excepting the fatal injury of the breast, was found; that was on the back part of the neck; no other wounds were found; I then proceeded to open the breast or thorax; I removed the breast bone or sternum; then dissected off carefully the skin (showing a piece of the skin which was punctured) this is a piece of the skin through which the knife penetrated; other portions of the body through which the knife passed were also exhibited by the Doctor and the wound described. The lung, he said, was carefully examined and removed; (the portion of the lung was exhibited and the wound in it described); the opening in the lung was more or less united by bands of lymph. The heart and left lung were examined and found to be healthy, the latter being only slightly congested; the injured lung had contracted to one-third its original size; it was congested, solidified so that no blood or air could well circulate through it. It appeared on its surface as if undergoing decomposition; all the other organs of the body seemed to be healthy, and we came to the conclusion that the man died from the injury received in the lung, consequent inflammation and effusion that took place; I will also state that we found the pleura adhering to the lung, and in a partially decomposed condition; as we progressed in this examination notes were taken by the attending surgeons; Dr. Daley was not asked for his opinion but made no objection to the conclusion arrived at by the other surgeons present, whom I have named.

The prosecution proposed to ask witness what sort of an instrument would make the wound which had caused the death of the deceased.

Mr. Swartzwelder, for the defense, objected. The Court overruled the objection, and the question was asked and answered, as follows:

I should judge from the nature of the wound that it was made with a sharp-pointed knife; the wound is large at the entrance and tapers down; the knife was sharp-pointed, broad and of considerable length.

Cross examined—In '66 was the last time I was in Canada practicing as a surgeon; In October of '65 I began practice in Pittsburgh; I saw Mr. Laughran the time he was stabbed, when I stated that it was on what I had been told; it was between six and seven o'clock P. M., Friday evening, the 8th of October; some men had been at the office and left directions; I never ascertained who the men were; I don't know who the men were who called on me Saturday and requested me to meet Dr. Duncan; don't recollect who they were; I was informed that Dr. Duncan would visit him there; I have taken no very active part in the prosecution of this case; I have taken a part, but not what I consider an active part; advised what should be done in the case to men who came to me about it; I accompanied men to Biddle Roberts' office to employ him to prosecute this case; I think we also went to Mr. Baynes' office; I really do not know who these men were; I think have never given General Pearson information in but one instance, and that was to procure a witness to corroborate my own statement; I have never contributed money to carry on this defense.

Counsel for the defendant now proposed to ask the witness on the stand (Dr. Donnelly) whether he did not say to W. C. Moreland and W. D. Moore, on Grant street, in the city of Pittsburgh, during the illness of Laughran, that he (Laughran) was out of danger and would get well, and that they or he (the said counsel) should get their Dutch clients to pay him his fee for attending Laughran.

Objected to by counsel for prosecution.

Objection overruled and question answered as follows:

I have no recollection of making such a statement as is there written. I may have said it jocularly. There are two points in that question. I did not speak to both of the gentlemen at the same time and on the same subject conjointly. I never made use of the word "Dutch" when applied to Germans.

Did you not say to W. C. Moreland, and in his office in the city of Pittsburgh, during the illness of Laughran that he (Laughran) was out of danger, and that he should get his German client to pay his (the Doctor's) fee for him (Laughran.) I certainly never many such statement; that is false. I may have said in a private conversation in a jocular way something of that kind, but as to having his German friend or client paying me any fee I certainly never said anything of the kind; I do not recollect saying to Mr. Moore that Laughran was out of danger, and would get well, and that he should have his client pay me my fees for attending Laughran; I did not state to Mr. Moore on Grant street, in front of the Cathedral, during the illness of Laughran, that he was getting well, and that as the attorneys were getting well paid, they should pay or make their client pay for attending the wounded man; I think I did not say it, because it is not my style of conversation; I never ask one man to pay another's bill; I think Dr. Duncan removed the plaster from the wound; it was four or five days after the wound was inflicted; for about eight days the patient had symptoms of acute inflammation, at the end of which time these symptoms ceased; at this time there was an abatement in the symptoms, after which the secondary symptoms set in; I saw Dr. Duncan during the time of the abatement of symptoms;

I stated, in giving my testimony as to the declarations I read from the prescription papers the answers to the questions that I did not rely upon my memory for the answers, but on what I wrote; I had in part a recollection of the various questions put and the various answers given; I had not the questions prepared in any way before I put them to the diseased; the questions were not written, the answers were; none of the questions were written; I gave the questions as near as I could recollect from reading the answers; I inferred the questions from the answers I had written down; some of the answers, the most prominent, I might have recollected if I had not written them down on the papers; I am in the habit of preserving portions of the body in cases like this like other surgeons, for the purpose of giving in testimony; at the time I wrote those answers I had no thought of preserving them for future prosecution.

William McNamee, sworn—I knew deceased Thomas Laughran; knew him since he was ten years old; he was a laboring man; he was pretty wild when he would get liquor, but not very; I saw him while he was sick; I was not at Hoffman's the night of the occurrence; think I saw him about 4 o'clock A. M., after he was hurt, at the Fort Pitt House; assisted to take him home; attended to him generally all the time until he died; he never expected to get over the injury; his whole cry was that he was going to die; he never thought that he thought he would never get over it; he was pretty strong until he died; the breathing was the worst on him; I was present the night Dr. Donnelly was there, when he wrote down the statement; I heard the questions put by Dr. Donnelly to Laughran; Dr. Donnelly took down the statement that the deceased told him; I remember some words spoken about six hours before he died; they were spoken the night Dr. Donnelly took down the statement; he spoke to me and Dr. Donnelly.

Counsel for prosecution proposed to offer in evidence dying declarations of deceased made to this witness and Dr. Donnelly.

Counsel for defendant objected, which was overruled by the Court and the declarations admitted.

I partly remember the words. He said one person had hold of him; did not know who it was; the next was Steve Hoffman had a hammer to the best of his knowledge, beating him with it; the next was Steve Hoffman having a knife; I mean Nick Hoffman had a knife using this knife on the deceased James Laughran; these are to the best of my knowledge the words I heard coming out of him; He took the knife first and used it in his back, the next words was "here in his breast" (pointing to his right breast); The next was he fell down and could not tell any more; I did not know Hoffman; Laughran was pretty low at the same time; I talked to Laughran at other times occasionally; He was generally pretty low at all times after he got wounded; He had very bad hopes of recovery; and said he would never recover. He had his senses partly; I was with him in the room one third of the time after he was wounded until he died. He was there fourteen days after he got wounded; I can't tell the time that he made any statement to me; it was about fourteen days after he was wounded that he made the statement to me; He did not make any statements before he made them to me and Mr. Donnelly.

Cross-examined—Have known Laughran for fourteen years; knew him first in Ireland, then in this country; was a little wild when he had a drop of liquor; have heard him spoken of as a fighting man; that is, he proposed a little that way; have heard him called the "Horse of the Ward." I promised to give money to carry on this prosecution; can't remember to whom I promised the money; I did speak to Bill Grant about the matter; don't remember the name of any one else; I signed no subscription papers.

The testimony in chief for the Commonwealth having closed, the council announced that they would rest the case.

THE DEFENSE.

Before opening the case for the defense, counsel moved to strike out certain portions of testimony offered by the Commonwealth.

Mr. Swartzwelder on behalf of the defendant opened the case. He stated clearly and briefly the ground for the defense. The defense in all criminal cases was made up from the weakness of the case made out by the Commonwealth and by facts shown by defendant which might go to exculpate him. The defense assumed that the Commonwealth must make out all the elements that go to constitute the offence charged before they can claim a verdict of guilty. The plea of not guilty was not only a denial of the commission of the offense but also a denial of everything requisite to constitute the crime. The theory of defense would be that if the offense was committed by defendant, it was done se defendendo, as it is technically called, or in other words, in self defense. He then gave a detailed history of the case and its origin.

At the conclusion of Mr. Swartzwelder's remarks Court took a recess until seven o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

Court convened at seven o'clock, and at half past seven the trial was resumed.

Before proceeding with the testimony for the defence the counsel for defendant submitted the following motion to strike out evidence offered by the Commonwealth previously referred to:

Counsel for defendant move to strike out the dying declaration of Thomas Laughran, the deceased, as given in evidence by the witness, Mrs. O'Donnell, for the following reasons:

First—That not sufficient proof was offered to establish the fact that deceased, at the time of making said alleged dying declarations, was and thought himself in a dying condition.

Second—That if, at the time of making said alleged dying declarations to the witness, Mrs. O'Donnell, any expressions at all were used by deceased, indicating apprehension of impending death, they were negatived by the confident expectation of living and being perfectly well, subsequently made by deceased to the witness, Dr. Duncan.

They further move to strike out the alleged dying declarations of deceased, Thomas Laughran, given in evidence by the witness, Dr. Donnelly, for the following reasons:

First—For the reason assigned as number one in support of the former motion.

Second—Because the alleged dying declarations given in evidence by the witness were taken down in writing by the witness and the written document was not given in evidence, but the witness' recollection of it.

Third—That the witness extracted from the deceased the said dying declarations by interrogatories put to deceased, the answers to which alone the witness put down in writing, and which he was permitted to read that he might infer the questions which he put to the deceased, which witness alleged he inferred from the written address and partly recollected.

Held C. A. V.

George L. Miller, sworn—(Witness shows a plan of Stephen Hoffman's house in which the murder was perpetrated.) I made this draft; it is a draft of the scene or locality where this man Laughran was killed or stabbed; it is a correct draft of Hoffman's house and the surrounding property, streets and alleys; there are two drafts, one of the block in which the house is situated, and a draft of the house on a larger scale; the distances marked on the draft are correct by measurement. (Witness then described the plan to the jury minutely, explaining the figures and their signification.)

Cross-examined—I am a civil engineer.

David Brosie, sworn—I lived in the 12th ward on Smallman street last of October; I was engaged at Singer & Nimick's rolling mill at Sawmill Run; I was at work on the sixth day of last October; was on the night turn; I stopped at Nicholas Hoffman's house between nine and ten o'clock that night; the house was two doors above 30th street on Penn; it is about 1¾ miles from Stephen Hoffman's house; Nicholas asked me to go down to Stephen's house with him, and I told him I would go after I went home and changed my clothes; had on my working clothes; went home, changed my clothes, returned to Nicholas Hoffman's and started; went down to Stephen's house about a quarter after ten o'clock; went down past Stephen's house; saw no light in Stephen's house, and did not get off the cars; went as far as Canal street and went into Donnelly's and got some oysters; came out and walked up toward Stephen's house, which is in the second square above; on our way up Nicholas pulled out two segars and gave me one; opposite Stephen's house there was a man standing across the street and Nicholas got a light from him; went across to Stephen's and Nicholas rapped at the door several times; the door was locked and there was no light in the house; Stephen stuck his head out of the window and asked who was there; Stephen came down and opened the door; we went in and Stephen locked the door; we talked there a while and then went down in the cellar and got to fixing about the ale or beer pump; we were in the cellar fixing the pipe of the pump a half hour or more; we came up out of the cellar and got into conversation together about one thing and another; Nicholas and Stephen Hoffman and myself only were in the room at that time; Stephen called his wife down, and Nicholas and Stephen's wife talked together for a good while. There was a rap came at the door; Stephen said keep quiet, and Nicholas said let them in; Stephen came around and unlocked the door, and Hanlon, Laughran, and Lemon came in; Nicholas shook hands with Hanlon, and caught him around the neck and said "you are just in time to have a drink." We had a drink and got to talking about rolling mill matters; Hanlon, Lemon, Laughran, Nicholas, Stephen and myself took a drink; Hanlon and Nicholas were talking about rolling mill matters; Hanlon paid for the first drink; Nicholas said now I'll treat, and Lemon said hold on I have two friends outside, I will call them in, and Nicholas said "all right, call them in." The conversation about rolling mill matters was going on all the time, and Stephen said "there will be a fight," and Nicholas said "no; we didn't come here to fight; I will pay for all they will drink." Laughran then interfered, and Nicholas said "I am not talking to you." Laughran said "I am talking to you." Laughran said Nicholas could not go back to Zug's and work any more; Nicholas said "I expect to go back there some day again." The first thing I saw they were both clinched together; they tusseled until they got to the middle of the bar room when they fell on the floor, Laughran on the top; I run in and got them parted; Steve was parting them too; Nicholas and Stephen run for a chair and said "keep away." I got Laughran by the arms and put him out; I got Laughran by the arms and pulled him off Nicholas; I put him out of the front door, and got the door closed all but about three or four inches and he tried to get in again; somebody from the outside tried to get in; Mrs. Hoffman, Stephen's wife, came and assisted me and we got the door shut and I locked it; after I got the door locked Nicholas was sitting back on the corner of the table with his head all bleeding; Nicholas said somebody go for a doctor; Stephen's wife said Stephen start for a doctor, they will kill him if he goes outside; Stephen said to Nicholas get up and walk up and down the room, it will ease the pain in your head; he walked up and down the room once or twice and had turned round to come toward Penn street when Mrs. Hoffman said, "My God! they are coming again;" Nicholas said "What," and wheeled around; Loughran then appeared in the entry door holding a "handy billy" up over his head; Nicholas threw up his arm to ward off the blow; then they got together and fought their way back; run into the entry to part them; Laughran struck at me and I threw my arm over my head and took the handy billy off Laughran. I then went and pulled Nick out of the entry. Got him by the left arm and just then I was cut in the right arm. Nicholas was on the floor when I got hold of him. I got him up on his feet and fetched him into the bar room. Stephen had hold of his back shoving him along and I had hold of his arm. After we got him out he asked me to go for a doctor. I went for a doctor, the first doctor below Wayne street; think it was Badger or McClelland; he would not come, and I went for Doctor Dake and he refused to come; I then started back to Stephen's house; when I got there they had arrested Nick and took him to the Mayor's office; just as I went into Stephen's house Stephen came in behind me and an officer came and laid his hand on my shoulder and said I must go along to the Mayor's office, and I said "all right;" he took us to the Mayor's office and we sent for a doctor who dressed our wounds; after I put Loughran out the first time there remained in the room no one but Nicholas, Stephen, Stephen's wife and myself; I do not know where Lemon, Hanlon, or the two strangers were; if they had been in the room I think I would have seen them; there was light enough there for me to have seen them; there were two gas burners burning; there was no light in the kitchen; when Nick and Steve were walking back and forth I heard a noise in the back part of the house; Laughran made some expression when he got to the bar room but I do not mind what it was; he got about a step inside the bar room; he came in a kind of a rush; there was some other man behind him and they were both in their shirt sleeves; when Laughran came in the bar room he had his raised above his head with a handy billy in it; Nicholas at that time had his face toward Penn street and his back toward the door where Laughran was, and as Mrs. Hoffman said "My God" he wheeled around; I did not hear Nick say anything at that time, but saw him throw his arm up to ward off the lick; at the time I took the handy billy from Laughran Nick was on the floor moaning; I put the handy billy in my pocket after I took it from Laughran; one of the Mayor's police took the handy billy from me as we were going to the Mayor's office; I think it was officer Cotton; after the door was locked, and before Laughran made his appearance at the back door, I saw Nicholas Hoffman at the time; I did not at any time see him have anything in his hand; I do not know whether I heard all that was said during that time or not; I could not say whether I heard all that Nicholas said during that time in a loud tone; when Nicholas asked me to go for a doctor, after I brought him into the bar-room, his face was all over blood; his head was bloody and the blood streaming down; he was literally covered with blood; if Nicholas had had a knife or anything in his hand during the time which elapsed after Laughran was put out and came in again I would have seen it unless he had pulled it out while my back was turned to him; if he had said loud enough to have been heard out of the window that he would kill any person I think I would have heard it—I heard Stephen say, "Nick, they tried to kill you;" it was after the first scuffle, and before Laughran came in at the back door I heard Stephen say that.

Cross-examined—I work at Singer & Nimick's mill; have been working there since September, '68; all the time except when we would break down and have to stop; I was in the east playing ball; went to work when I came back; the house I live in fronts on Spruce alley, and the yard runs back to Smallman street.

THE RIVAL WIVES.

Women at War—All About a Boy—A Female Set-to, and What Was the Result.

Yesterday afternoon, about four o'clock, a hearing in a case of unusual interest came off at the Allegheny Mayor's office. The participants were a man with two wives—one a divorced wife—and his son. The husband is a merchant engaged in business on Federal street. Several years ago he married a young girl, but after living with her some time, they failed to agree and a divorce was the result. The woman then resorted to boarding on Chatham street, where she has staid since the separation. The couple had a child, a boy, who was retained by the father, but was allowed occasionally to visit his mother. She, it is said, resorted to evil ways, and being young and remarkably beautiful had a sufficiency of attendants.

Subsequently the man married—this time choosing as his helpmeet a staid and elderly dame, to rule over the household. Matters moved along smoothly enough until a few days ago, when the boy who is about thirteen years of age, visited his mother, when he complained of being ill treated at his stopping place. The maternal parent at once determined to investigate the case, and in pursuance of this design visited the house of her former matrimonial partner Wednesday evening. There, for the first time the rival wives met. Well they talked, and then to fighting was the logical sequence. In the house they commenced and upon Federal street, surrounded by sympathizing friends, they ended—or rather were interrupted by a policeman, who escorted each to the lock-up. Bail was given for their appearance yesterday, when the hearing came off.

The boy and his mother, and the man and his new wife, together with the friends of each, managed to fill up the Mayor's sanctum. Alderman Irwin, in the absence of Mayor Callow, officiated, and the case began with a statement of the fight by the policeman. The two women then commenced, and for half an hour the excitement continued. The old wife thought nothing of characterizing the young one as a woman of the town, while the accused was equally emphatic in her disapprobation of the other. The old one contended the boy did not wish to leave his home, whereas the other as rebutting evidence testified that he came to her as often as he was allowed. Then it was insinuated that as the youth at home was compelled to be trained up in the way he should go—that is at Sabbath School—he preferred to go to his mother, who found him enjoyment at the theatre. The youth was then admonished by the elderly female to beware of his maternal parent. The parent alluded to, exhorted him to pray for her, even though she was so vile.

The argument continued in this manner, blasphemy and piety being intermingled with tears and frantic endeavors to seize each other's chignons and remove each other's eyes, until the patience of the magistrate became exhausted. The women by this time were tired, too, and finally a compromise was effected. The cross-suits which had been entered were withdrawn and the hearing was over. The boy, the cause of the row, departed with his mother. The man who had remained comparatively quiet retired in an opposite direction with his favored spouse, and the spectators, who had been interested observers of the scene, dispersed. The case throughout was one of the most peculiar, even for a police court, that we have ever known.

—The above was crowded out of yesterday's issue. Since then the affair has been renewed at the office of Alderman McMasters. That genial magistrate was called upon yesterday by wife No. 1, who made information against wife No. 2 for assault and battery and surety of the peace. The opponent claims that wife No. 2 beat her terribly, and not satisfied with that, locked the door of the house and threatened to make her and the little boy interesting subjects for the undertaker. She further says the child was beaten and abused by the step-mother until he was almost killed. He was present with his mother at the Alderman's office, and corroborated what was said, which only increased the excitement of his "ma." The case will come up for final disposition this afternoon.

Jewelry and Watches.—Mr. W. G Dunseath, near the Opera House, Fifth avenue, has a choice assortment of watches, gold and silver, time-pieces of all kinds and descriptions, all varieties of jewelry, and everything in the line of optical goods. It is one of the most complete jewelry establishments in the city, and bears a reputation among the best in this section of the State. Mr. Dunseath is agent also for some of the most popular time-keepers, such as Bartlett's, which to any one needing a good watch is the exact article. This house is eminently worthy of extended patronage.

The summer season at the watering places has been fairly opened, and the trunk trade as a consequence is lively. Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, is kept busy supplying travelers with his incomparable manufactures. Pittsburghers will have them, and others, when they see their superiority, also sigh for one of Liebler's trunks. He has all the latest styles, and many new kinds not to be had elsewhere.

The Weed Sewing Machine has more strong points in its favor than any other. Call at 116 Market street and examine the "Weed."

The Spring Stock of Henry G. Hale, Merchant Tailor, at corner of Penn avenue and Sixth street, is now large and complete. Monsieur Bonpain continues to preside at the cutting. tf

If you don't believe the Continental is the most popular restaurant in the city, ask other people who have been there and then go yourself.

The reason there is always such a crowd below the Postoffice, on Fifth avenue, each day at dinner is because that is where the Continental is located.

Down-town Merchants stopping in the city for dinner will find what they desire at the Continental, Fifth avenue.

THE RAILROAD EXCURSION.

The Party in the Oil Country—Sights and Scenes Among the Derricks—The "Columbia" Property and Miller Farms—Courtesies Received—Personal Notes.

In our last regular report of the progress of the excursionists we left them safely at Venango City. At this point A. J. Cassatt, Esq., Superintendent of the P. R. R. bid a temporary adieu to the party to pay a visit to his father, who is engaged extensively in the refining of oil, purposing to rejoin it the following day, either at Corry or some other point on the proposed route.

The train passed over to Oil City, and the party partook of an excellent dinner at the "Duncan House."

The excursion train passed over to the track of the Oil Creek and Allegheny River Railroad, a designation which now embraces several consolidated roads, of which John Pitcairn, Jr., Esq., brother of Robert Pitcairn, Superintendent of the Western Division of the P. R. R., is General Manager. Mr. Pitcairn was formerly superintendent of a division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and at the time of his appointment to his present position, which took place about a year ago, Division Superintendent of the Philadelphia and Erie road. The excursion train was under his direction from Oil City to Corry, and his deliberate promptness inspired all on board with confidence. He is decidedly an energetic young gentleman eminently qualified for his position. The Pitcairn family seem to have been born railroad men. Our Southern friends who are on the excursion express their great surprise that our railroads, and especially the Pennsylvania Central, are managed by such young men. They acknowlege very gracefully that our "Yankee boys" are possessed of superior qualifications for business, and the conducting of affairs of the great corporations.

The first point at which a stop was made after leaving Oil City was the "Story Farm," better known now as the territory of the Columbia Oil Company. Here the excursionists were received by the Columbia Cornet Band, which discoursed excellent music for about half an hour for the entertainment of the visitors, who, under the conduct of D. A. Stewart, Esq., of Pittsburgh, marched two by two over a portion of the territory of the company. The first well visited was yielding forty barrels a day, and has not failed to yield for five years. There are about thirty-six wells in operation, the production of which, according to the daily report on the day the excursionists visited them, was about four hundred barrels. Four additional wells are now being drilled. The whole territory—about five hundred acres—of the company was purchased originally for $20,000. Since its first organization it has paid about three millions of dollars to the stockholders.

In full view of the Columbia territory is the Dalzell farm, on the most elevated point of which our attention was directed to a well which yields three hundred barrels a day. Commissioner Delano expressed it as his opinion that there will be a great increase yet in the production of oil.

The next point of interest was the Miller farm, the scene of operations of the "Pipe Company," where the oil, after being conducted for miles in iron pipes, is loaded on the cars, twenty-five of which can be loaded at the same time. Some of the oil is conducted in this way a distance of seven or eight miles. The Company have about sixty-four miles of pipe in operation, and their tanks have a capacity of three hundred thousand barrels, and they handle one hundred thousand barrels monthly. Mr. Warmcastle, the Superintendent, showed great courtesy to the visitors.

The train halted for a few minutes at Titusville, where Messrs. J. McC. Creighton, D. A. Stewart, and some others took their leave of the excursion party and returned to Pittsburgh to attend to pressing duties.

The excursion party arrived at Corry, the terminus of the O. C. & A. R. R., about half-past six o'clock in the evening, where the shifting of the train to the track of the Philadelphia and Erie road occupied some thirty minutes. Here the party were joined by W. A. Baldwin, Esq., General Superintendent of the Philadelphia and Erie, and J. W. Reynolds, Esq., Superintendent of the Western Division of the same road. Both of these gentlemen were most devoted in their attentions to the excursionists. The excellent condition of the road may be judged of from the fact that the run from Corry to Erie, a distance of thirty-eight miles, was made in one hour, including stops.

On the arrival of the train at Erie at eight o'clock in the evening, the party found carriages in waiting to conduct them to the "Reed House," where all were furnished with luxurious apartments.

An excursion on Lake Erie on Friday morning was talked of, but it may be that the party, on invitation, would only visit the revenue cutter, Michigan, lying in the bay.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

Perhaps it may be considered an insidious act in us to single out any one concern in our city for special commendation, where all have equal claims upon us; but we feel that it is our duty and the duty of all public spirited journalists, a duty which we owe not only to the business community, but to the great body of our citizens, to hold up for encouragement and imitation any individual or set of individuals who have in their sphere so labored as to elevate the character of our city manufacturers, of whatever kind. Whosoever does this is entitled justly to the reward of special prominence, with all the advantages that follow from it. We know of no firm which is so justly entitled to the reward of being held up to the public for commendation, or to their brother craftsmen as a model, than Messrs. C. G. Hammer & Sons, of Nos. 46, 48 and 50 Seventh avenue, who have elevated the manufacture of furniture to a higher standard than it has ever before attained here, and placed it on a level with the best products of our eastern cities, or indeed Europe for that matter, in that line. For fine finish, beauty, freshness of design, and durability of character, such furniture has never before been produced in Pittsburgh. We ask our readers to visit their show-rooms, and they will be made welcome to see if we have spoken in terms too high of the workmanship of this firm.

Go There.

There is no difficulty in getting exactly suited in clothing if the purchaser will only go to the right place. Such a house as that of Hespenheide & Co.'s, No. 50 Sixth street, for instance, is the kind to patronize. Every garment from that establishment is sure to look well because it is sure to fit, and in thus fitting it will always give satisfaction. The gentlemen comprising this firm make it a duty and a pride to allow nothing to go from their house without it is exactly the article which the patron bargained for, and hence every customer is pleased, and the reputation of their establishment has been made secure. Go there for clothing.

How to Look Young—Sixteen.—Don't paint or use vile Hair Restorers, but simply apply Hagan's Magnolia Balm upon your face, neck and hands, and use Lyon's Kathairon upon your hair. The Balm makes your complexion pearly, soft and natural, and you can't tell what did it. It removes freckles, tan, sallowness, ring-marks, moth-patches, etc.; and in place of a red, rustic face, you have the marble purity of an exquisite belle. It gives to middle age the bloom of perpetual youth. Add these effects to a splendid head of hair produced by the Kathairon, and a lady has done her best in the way of adornment. Brothers will have no spinster sisters when these articles are around. T-TH-S

It is convenient, too, for all parts of the city, and possesses the advantage of a retired, homelike hotel within easy distance of all points of interest.

Go to Youngson's.—If you want a real delicious dish of the finest flavored ice cream, which melts away in your mouth like that prepared for the delicate palate of a luxurious fairy, go to Youngson & Co's, corner of Smithfield street and Diamond alley. And when you are there don't forget to try some of their confectionery, cakes, jellies, candies, foreign fruits—all of which are of the most luscious character.
